Johnson Reaffirms Support Of U.N. In India-Pakistan Bid

India Ready To Hear Plea By Johnson

Accuses Pakistan Of Political Step In Approach To U.S.

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — India said today it will listen to peace appeals from President Johnson and accused Pakistan of playing politics in asking Washington to end the war on the subcontinent.

"We have already made a positive response to appeals by Johnson and others," a government spokesman said. "But Pakistan now is just engaged in political maneuvering."

President Mohammed Ayub Khan of Pakistan told a news conference in Rawalpindi Wednesday "the United States can play a very definite role by telling India and Pakistan she will not stand for this struggle."

Ayub also for the first time showed some flexibility on the question of a plebiscite in the disputed state of Kashmir, saying "it's a matter that can be negotiated." Up to now Pakistan has insisted on a plebiscite in Kashmir within three months.

Prime Minister Lal Bahadur Shastri told the Indian Parliament today that Ayub is only trying to "beguile the world" with his talk of peace.

"The evidence is that Pakistan is intending to continue the fight," Shastri said.

He called on the Indian nation to "cheerfully undergo the hardships" necessary to stop what he called Pakistan's "naked aggression."

U.N. Secretary-General U Thant's peace mission failed "through no fault of our own," Shastri said, blaming Pakistan's insistence on a conditional cease-fire.

"Not one of these (conditions) is acceptable to us," Shastri said.

A comparative lull was reported this morning along the front in most sectors. An Indian defense ministry spokesman said there was fighting in the far north sector of Sialkot but combat had slackened almost everywhere else.

Thant Claims Peace Mission Not Failure

LONDON (AP) — U.S. Secretary-General U Thant said today his peace mission to India and Pakistan was not a failure.

"You will discover this tomorrow when my report is made public," he told reporters at London airport.

Thant is heading back to New York to report to the U.N. Security Council on his mission.

The secretary-general spoke to newsmen after talking with Foreign Secretary Michael Stewart during a stopover en route to New York from Bombay.

Any Price Hike Watched

Wage Guidelines In Steel Contract Defended By U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP) — High administration sources still insist the steel contract negotiated in the shadow of the White House did not exceed government wage guidelines.

Some nongovernment estimates placed the cost higher than the guidelines would provide, leading to speculation of possible price increases.

But White House economists are sticking with their figures and the implication is that President Johnson will be closely watching for any steel price hikes he considers inflationary.

A government source said industry negotiators came to the White House hoping for Johnson's tacit approval of higher prices in exchange for boosting its wage offer to end the strike threat.

But Johnson didn't give it to them, this source said.

The industry finally raised its wage offer, agreement was reached Sept. 3 and the contract was signed on Labor Day.

Johnson called the settlement "noninflationary." It was not clear what he might do if the industry imposes general increases.

Here's how the government figures it:

White House guidelines suggest that industry can afford to raise wages 3.2 per cent a year without increasing prices to offset the added labor costs.

This is based on government figures estimating that productivity — the amount a worker produces — increases by 3.2 per cent annually because of improved machinery and industrial efficiency.

Some estimates placed the cost of the steel settlement at about 3.5 per cent a year, but the difference is almost purely one of arithmetic.

It depends on whether the contract is figured as 35 months or 39 months long.

The contract runs from last Sept. 1 to Aug. 1, 1968 — a total of 35 months. But the over-all money package includes the 11.5- cent temporary wage increase negotiated previously in exchange for a four-month strike postponement from May 1 to Sept. 1.

Assistance For Thant Is Restated

Declares U.N. Is Central Hope Of Peace Through Law

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson restated today strong American support for United Nations efforts to end the India- Pakistan conflict.

In an address prepared for judges and lawyers from 100 countries attending the Washington World Conference on World Peace Through Law, Johnson said:

"Central to the hope of world peace through law is the United Nations. . . .I hope we can strengthen the United Nations, not simply as a forum for debate but as an arena for the solution of disputes. . . . And my country will fully support the efforts of the secretary-general to bring peace between the great nations of India and Pakistan."

This was the only reference in Johnson's prepared text to the latest Asian conflict. He made no mention of a suggestion Wednesday by President Mohammed Ayub Khan of Pakistan that the United States assume a larger role in trying to end fighting over Kashmir.

While the administration has not ruled out possible direct American efforts to promote a Pakistan-India settlement, the immediate response to Ayub's statement was to reaffirm support of U.N. Secretary-General U Thant's mediation attempts — and to gather more information about the private thinking reflected in Ayub's public statement.

Johnson's address, inspirational in tone, dealt only fleetingly with specific trouble spots. There was no direct mention of Viet Nam, for instance, although Johnson previously had invited U.N. efforts to promote a settlement there, too.

"There are those who say the rule of law is a fruitless and Utopian dream," said Johnson. "It is true that, if it comes, it will come slowly. . .But to deny the possibility is to deny peace itself."

In a more hopeful vein, he said: "I think we may be evolving a world consensus on which law can stand. The mass of mankind is slowly realizing the dangers of conflict and the futility of war."

Senator Claims Bungling By Johnson

Two Challenge Fulbright In Dominican Crisis Issue

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen and Democratic Sen. George A. Smathers challenged today Sen. J. W. Fulbright's contention that the Johnson administration bungled the Dominican crisis.

Fulbright, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, told the Senate Wednesday President Johnson was given "unsound advice" and that fear of a Communist takeover in Santo Domingo was based on misinformation and on "exaggerated estimates of Communist influence."

The Arkansas Democrat said "the danger to America lives was more a pretext than a reason for the massive United States intervention." He said, "In their panic lest the Dominican Republic become another Cuba, some of our officials seem to have forgotten that virtually all reform movements attract some Communist support."

Fulbright said Johnson, on the basis of the information and counsel he received, could hardly have acted other than he did. The senator said he had no objection to sending a modest contingent of U.S. troops to Santo Domingo to save American lives, but claimed there was "over action" by the administration in the dispatch of 22,000 men.

In a joint interview Dirksen and Smathers, secretary of the Democratic conference, disagreed with Fulbright's interpretation of the situation. Like Fulbright, they attended a White House meeting the night Johnson made his decision to send in troops.

Dirksen said he agreed with Johnson's decision then "and I agree with it now."

"A good many people had already been killed in Santo Domingo," Dirksen said. "The Communists were building up their strength. The country could have been torn apart. The President had to act."

Smathers said those at the White House meeting were told there were available reports on 58 trained Communists already on hand in Santo Domingo who could be expected to attempt to take over leadership in the revolt.

"The consensus at the meeting was that we couldn't afford to have another Cuba," he said. "Nobody disagreed to the plan to send troops."

Fulbright told the Senate "no American lives were lost in Santo Domingo until the Marines began exchanging fire with the rebels."

Of Communist involvement in the Dominican result, Fulbright said there is an important difference between Communist support and Communist control of a political movement.

"It is quite possible to compete with the Communists for influence in a reform movement rather than abandon it to them," he said.

Hunt Goes On For Bodies In New Orleans

Flood Waters From Hurricane Recede; Death List Mounts

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP) — Authorities continued a house-to - house search today for bodies in eastern New Orleans as flood waters from Hurricane Betsy — which unleashed its fury a week ago — slowly receded.

A similar operation was under way in neighboring St. Bernard Parish, where 3 to 4 feet of water remained in some low-lying sections.

Police sealed off a 300-square block area after Dr. Rodney Jung, city health officer, said it was necessary because "conditions have deteriorated to an alarming degree."

A nauseating stench permeated the area, which contained green scum, floating garbage and hundreds of animal carcasses.

Communications with the devastated regions of lower Plaquemines Parish, 60 miles down the Mississippi River from New Orleans, remained out and there was no late word on conditions. Earlier, Plaquemines officials said it would take 30-60 days alone to restore fresh water facilities.

The Mississippi River around Baton Rouge remained closed to shipping as a search went on for a barge loaded with 600 tons of deadly chlorine. The barge sank during the hurricane.

The list of known and presumed dead climbed to 68 in Louisiana with another 12 victims reported from Florida, Mississippi and Arkansas. In addition, the New Orleans' coroner had more than 100 names on a list of missing persons and there were still numerous persons unaccounted for in St. Bernard and Plaquemines Parishes.

The herculean task of cleaning up debris and repairing damaged homes and businesses was in full swing. Utility service was gradually being restored in all but the sections still under water.

Suspected Red Target

B52s Make First Raid On Mekong

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — U.S. Air Force B52 bombers made their first raid into the Mekong south of Saigon today, striking a suspected Red target 90 miles below the capital, U.S. military authorities said.

The raid over Vinh Binh Province was the 25th reported made by the jets of the Strategic Air Command against targets in Viet Nam.

The other raids have been carried out north of Saigon mostly in Zone D, long a Communist stronghold, and in the Ben Cat area a few miles north of the capital.

On the ground U.S. and allied troops ran into sniper and mortar fire as they tried to clear the Viet Cong from thick jungle near Ben Cat. Vietnamese paratroopers, joined by U.S., Australian and New Zealand troops have not yet made major contact with the elusive guerrillas, a spokesman said.

Australian and New Zealand troops suffered light losses in the jungle probe near Ben Cat, about 30 miles north of Saigon in Binh Duong Province, but no U.S. casualties were reported, he said.

A U.S. patrol came under Viet Cong fire and ordered the guerrillas out of their underground bunkers.

39, Including American, Die In Viet Crash

QUANG NGAI, South Viet Nam (AP) — Thirty-nine persons, including an American, were killed today when an Air Viet Nam C47 commercial airliner crashed shortly after takeoff from Quang Ngai airfield.

The dead American was Jerry Rose, described as a free lance writer who also was a civilian adviser to the South Vietnamese government. His wife lives in Hong Kong.

Among the dead was the South Vietnamese minister of rural pacification, Nguyen Tat Ung.

Gen. Nguyen Thi, commander of the South Vietnamese 1st army corps, said Ung and Rose were travelling together to installations in two provinces.

Earlier reports said 40 persons had been on the plane but authorities said only 39 were aboard.

Mine Causes Injury To Pfc. John McCoy

Pfc. John (Butch) McCoy, 23, received leg injuries when a mine exploded Sunday during fighting in Viet Nam, additional information received by his mother, Mrs. Florence McCoy of 132 W. 4th St., disclosed today.

The original announcement had the private "critically wounded" while serving with a Marine engineer division.

He has been transferred to the Great Lakes Naval Hospital at Great Lakes, Ill.

Walkout Ends At Waterford

Pickets Withdrawn, Workers Due Back

A settlement has been reached in the 2-month-old strike at Waterford Park, James F. Edwards, owner of the race track near Newell, has announced.

Pickets were withdrawn Wednesday evening and 30 regular parimutuel clerks and 11 extras are scheduled to return to work Friday night.

Edwards and Harry Walton, financial secretary of Local 101-A of the AFL-CIO Building Services Employes Union, arrived at an iterim agreement yesterday to serve until drafting of a new contract is completed.

Edwards said that a large majority of the present employes who served during the strike will be retained.

He pointed out that removal of the pickets will eliminate the inconvenience that resulted during the walkout to bus patrons and motorists. Suppliers' trucks also will be able to enter the grounds again for the first time.

The strike was called last July 10 by Local Union 412 of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, with headquarters at Youngstown. It involved about a dozen employes of the track working in various capacities and spread when the parimutuel clerks refused to cross the picket lines.

Cooper Rules Murray Must Assume Post

Councilman Floyd L. Murray has been Council president since Sept. 1, when George E. Willshaw stepped up to the mayor's office, and has no choice except to give up his First Ward seat in the automatic succession, Solicitor Joseph W. Cooper has ruled.

Murray said today he will follow the solicitor's advice and assume the Council president's duties, although he explained at the Council meeting on Sept. 7 he would prefer to continue to serve the East End district that has elected him to two two-year terms and in which he seeks another term at the Nov. 2 general election.

Cooper ruled, in effect, that as president pro tem Murray automatically became president to succeed Willshaw when the former president stepped up to the mayoralty to replace Merrill D. Hall.

Cooper said it was "a matter of the operation of the law" and that the president pro tem succeeds the president of Council in the same way that Lyndon B. Johnson automatically became President on the death of John F. Kennedy.

Murray will serve about four months in Willshaw's unexpired term. He won the Democratic nomination for a new term in the First Ward at the May primaries. At the same time, Willshaw captured the Republican nomination for mayor, as Hall decided not to run for a second term.

The Council presidency will be filled on Jan. 1 by a man chosen at the November general election. Republicans nom-

Demands Council Adopt Policy

Cardinal Ritter Defends Religious Liberty Rights

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Joseph Elmer Cardinal Ritter, of St. Louis, Mo., today led eight prelates in vigorous defense of every man's right to worship as he pleases. He demanded that the Vatican Ecumenical Council adopt a document setting this forth as church policy.

Six other speakers on the third day of the final session of the council firmly opposed the statement on religious liberty.

Two American cardinals had pleaded Wednesday for approval of the document. Cardinal Ritter, who opened debate today, said: "If we do not approve this document, we will be running the risk of being numbered among the enemies of the Gospel."

Cardinal Ritter shares with prelates like Cardinals Francis Spellman of New York and Richard Cushing of Boston the view that the council must issue a declaration calling on civil governments to protect every man's right to believe as he wishes.

Conservative bishops from Italy and Spain replied in opposition that a religious liberty declaration would weaken the church.

A major point in the arguments of those advocating the document is that people today, living in a modern society of easy communication and universal education, rightly expect the widest possible liberty in their lives.

There is strong opposition among the 2,200 council fathers to the document. But a majority appears determined that by the time the council ends, probably before Christmas, the declaration will be approved and issued by the council and Pope Paul VI.

Bettis Given Issue About Unpaid Staff

LISBON — The issue of withheld paychecks for 10 recently appointed workers at the Columbiana County Home's hospital section was being studied today by County Prosecutor Warren Bettis.

The paychecks, due the employes Sept. 5, have been held up as a result of a refusal by the Ohio Civil Service office to approve the employes' pay because it was not authorized by the county commissioners.

The employes were apparently hired by Supt. Russell Phillis, but the pay rates were not set by the commissioners.

Of the workers, most hired in late August, one had worked a month while the rest had worked for 10 to 16 days.

R. Max Gard of the commissioners said the state code requires the commissioners to set the pay of any personnel hired by the superintendent of a coun-

Demands Council Adopt Policy

Cardinal Ritter Defends Religious Liberty Rights

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Joseph Elmer Cardinal Ritter, of St. Louis, Mo., today led eight prelates in vigorous defense of every man's right to worship as he pleases. He demanded that the Vatican Ecumenical Council adopt a document setting this forth as church policy.

Six other speakers on the third day of the final session of the council firmly opposed the statement on religious liberty.

Two American cardinals had pleaded Wednesday for approval of the document. Cardinal Ritter, who opened debate today, said: "If we do not approve this document, we will be running the risk of being numbered among the enemies of the Gospel."

Cardinal Ritter shares with prelates like Cardinals Francis Spellman of New York and Richard Cushing of Boston the view that the council must issue a declaration calling on civil governments to protect every man's right to believe as he wishes.

Conservative bishops from Italy and Spain replied in opposition that a religious liberty declaration would weaken the church.

A major point in the arguments of those advocating the document is that people today, living in a modern society of easy communication and universal education, rightly expect the widest possible liberty in their lives.

There is strong opposition among the 2,200 council fathers to the document. But a majority appears determined that by the time the council ends, probably before Christmas, the declaration will be approved and issued by the council and Pope Paul VI.

Bettis Given Issue About Unpaid Staff

LISBON — The issue of withheld paychecks for 10 recently appointed workers at the Columbiana County Home's hospital section was being studied today by County Prosecutor Warren Bettis.

The paychecks, due the employes Sept. 5, have been held up as a result of a refusal by the Ohio Civil Service office to approve the employes' pay because it was not authorized by the county commissioners.

The employes were apparently hired by Supt. Russell Phillis, but the pay rates were not set by the commissioners.

Of the workers, most hired in late August, one had worked a month while the rest had worked for 10 to 16 days.

R. Max Gard of the commissioners said the state code requires the commissioners to set the pay of any personnel hired by the superintendent of a coun-inated Ernest A. Lowe and Democrats picked Arch H. Smith.

Murray's move up to the presidency means his First Ward seat is vacant. His successor will be elected by Council. The post may be filled at Council's meeting next Monday night or the election may come later.

In announcing he wished to remain as the First Ward member, Murray asked a ruling on his status from Cooper.

He said he felt he had "a contract with the people of the First Ward because they elected me to a full two-year term."

"I want to fulfill that contract if at all possible," he said.

Special Election Plans Canceled By Voting Board

The County Election Board, at a special meeting Wednesday afternoon, granted a request from the Wellsville Board of Education to cancel a special election slated Tuesday on a bond issue and a companion tax levy to finance a building program.

The Election Board acted on a resolution certified by the Board of Education rescinding the school authorities' resolution of Aug. 9 which requested the special election. Wellsville school authorities said a discrepancy in the amount of the bond issue caused the cancellation, but the issue may be revised and submitted at the general election Nov. 2.

Frank R. O'Hanlon, clerk, said the Election Board canceled the election with the understanding the Wellsville School District will assume the bill for all expenses incurred by the Election Board in its preparations. In addition, the Election Board notified the 84 judges and clerks in the 14 - precinct area that their services will not be required Tuesday because of the cancellation.

Midland's Board Reduces Its Debt

The Midland Municipal Autority approved payment of obligations amounting to $20,000 at its meeting Wednesday night, reducing its debt to $75,000.

In other business, the authority discussed the cost of replacing office equipment with representatives of the Addressograph - Multigraph Corp. and the possible construction of storage space between the settling basins.

Granvil Kester, consulting engineer of Michael Baker Jr., Inc., presented plans for an 800 square feet of storage space between the basins. The board earlier had requested the plans for larger storage facilities. The program will be studied further.

Also under discussion was enlargement of a platform in front of the plant on Railroad Ln. and the extension of the sidewalk to the street.

Dr. Zanvil Sigal, chairman, presided at the meeting. The next meeting will be Oct. 20.

Freedom's Longest Interval

Since Sept. 28, 1787, when Congress ordered the Constitution that had been framed in Philadelphia the preceding summer sent to the state legislatures this nation has struggled to secure the blessings of liberty.

The struggle is never-ending.

It has become commonplace.

There is not the sense of urgency that had made it possible for the world's finest charter of human liberty to be framed between May and September in 1787.

But implicit in the endless struggle is the same vital importance that existed then to understand the terms of liberty.

The Founding Fathers did not believe they had absolute answers to all the tremendous problems that faced them.

They did not attempt to lock the new nation into an inelastic pattern of politics. They provided for change in the basic law. They provided for a government of divided power.

THEY FORESAW that differences of opinion would arise. They bore the scars of controversy, because they had been bitterly divided between the issue of federalism vs. nationalism that still plagues the United States.

Some were imbued with the dream of "one nation indivisible."

Others wanted the new nation to be a loose federation of sovereign states, as it had started out to be under the Articles of Federation and Perpetual Union.

They debated this point throughout the Constitutional Convention.

The debate continues to this day and will be continuing a century from now, if the United States is lucky.

Lucky?

Debate has been the lifeblood of freedom for the American people. From it have flowed all the ideas that have enriched freedom. Through debate, all ideas that threatened to destroy freedom have been squelched, or modified to make them less harmful.

Freedom is not a static condition of mankind. It is an atmosphere in which men feel free to inquire, to improvise, investigate and make innovations.

THE ENDLESS controversy that is so upsetting to those who would prefer to have everthing cut, dried and changeless is the vitai spark of freedom.

Here, the spark is permitted, even encouraged.

Elsewhere it must be concealed and suppressed, lest it ignite some movement to overthrow or embarrass the established order.

Freedom's longest interval has lasted since a September day in 1787 when the Constitution was submitted for ratification — 178 short years, only a tick of history's clock. But never before have so many human beings been relieved of so much oppression and despotism by one political document.

It's Worth Looking Into

Steps have been taken to include a comprehensive study aimed at modernizing East Liverpool's transportation system as part of the city's "master plan."

The City Planning Commission proposes to name a new committee to draft recommendations. The task won't be easy. Adequate trasportation is proving a major headache for communities big and little across the nation.

When finally set up, committee members will be missing a bet if they fail to confer with city officials at Portsmouth relative to a program which has helped meet a major transportation need there and in two neighboring towns.

"Little buses" took over after the Portsmouth Transportation Co. surrendered its franchise last June, blaming loss of passengers and an accompanying loss of revenue.

When things looked blackest, a new line stepped into the picture and placed compact 14-passenger buses on the streets, serving Portsmouth and nearby New Boston and Sciotville.

After three months, the little buses still are going strong, with an average of 750 to 800 passengers being carried daily. Tighter schedules are possible because of cheaper operating expenses when compared with the larger, older buses, Portsmouth officials explain.

Everyone's enthusiastic about the program — operators, passengers and city officials alike. Only minor complaints have been received.

With due respect to the present bus system here, the Portsmouth program seems to be something worth studying in conjunction with any comprehensive transportation survey.

One For All

The Beaver County Planning Commission has disclosed its broad master plan for the area's development.

We wish it success, with the firm feeling that what's good for Beaver will prove good for East Liverpool and the immediate area. The greater the progress in the district as a whole, the greater the prospect of industrial development that will benefit all communities through greater job opportunities, bigger payrolls, with increased consumer buying, and a general betterment in many directions.

The commission offered these words of caution, however, that should not be forgotten be it in Beaver, East Liverpool or any other area:

"Success of the plan hinges on cooperation and implementation by the municipalities."

In other words, all must put their shoulders to the wheel if the desired results are to be forthcoming.

Central Intervention Agency

The American way of life is broad enough to cover a multitude of fumbles, but its limits are being stretched by the Central Intelligence Agency.

Latest offense against popular feeling by this strange organization inside the U.S. government is the revelation that the government of South Viet Nam has asked for withdrawal of three U.S. officials accused of political plotting against the long-term political interests of the Saigon government. Two of these are CIA agents. The third is a political officer in the U.S. Embassy in Saigon.

The general nature of the offense, as disclosed in allegations by Saigon, is that CIA agents had conspired with certain Vietnamese who take a dim view of the central government. The apparent purpose of the conspiracy was to set up a hostile minority among hill-country tribesmen and tell it how to negotiate with lowland politicians for a better deal.

Saigon's animosity was fired up by the prevailing opinion among the lowland politicians who dominate the South Viet Nam capital that hill-country tribesmen are inferior and should not be taken seriously.

The upshot of the incident is a measurable increase in the mistrust with which officials of South Viet Nam are forced to hold an ally and benefactor who repeatedly has intervened in their political affairs.

No one can be so naive as to believe governments do not nib into one another's affairs whenever they think they can get away with it.

But many of us can believe that when this is done it should be done so adroitly there is no danger of being caught, not even of being accused.

The Central Intervention Agency, formerly the Central Intelligence Agency, is being caught too often. It is fumbling away its hold on popular confidence.

Letter From Max

Dear Truman Twill:

You probably know more about Herodotus, the ancient Greek called the "father of history," than I do, but here is an item about him, in case you missed it.

Some historians consider Herodotus a joker. That may be because of his writing that old Egyptian leaders dreamed up a lot of government ideas when drunk and then when they had sobered up chewed the ideas over and acted upon the ones they wanted to keep.

You know what modern cynics are going to say. They are going to say the process is just reversed nowadays; that lawmakers and executives take sober ideas, revamp them and put them into practice when they are drunk.

Your comment that sweet corn was not as flavorful this year because of drought reminds me of the constant cry of adults that cooking today isn't as good as mother's or grandmother's was.

It is the appetite that flags, not the food.

The corn this year tasted wonderful to me. Also the tomatoes and cucumbers.

Nice to hear that Leroy (Satchel) Paige is returning to the majors, this time with the Kansas City Athletics. One of my treasured sports memories is having seen him pitch for the Cleveland Indians in 1948.

It is one thing to meet force with force, as was done in Korea and is being done in Viet Nam. But when it comes to completely eliminating communism by force that is another thing.

Communism, besides being a conspiracy, is an idea and there are an awful lot of ideas kicking around in the world which have withstood centuries of force.

In all the conjecture about the future of the Republican party, nothing has been said about how almost everybody loves an underdog. The GOP is sure to profit from that.

Now that you are filling the air with tales of your adventurous vacation to the West Coast, some time when you are backed into a corner and have no escape I'll have to tell you about the time I drove two ladies to California. Only trouble is that to make my story sound as adventurous as it was I should give the year it took place—and that was a long time ago.

Also I could tell you about my Uncle Charley, who about the time of World War I was superintendent of motive power of the Union Pacific Railroad, whose hospitality I believe you enjoyed on your trip.

Faithfully yours,
MAX

King's Action Stirs Some Questions

By DAVID LAWRENCE

The Reverend Martin Luther King Jr., one of the Negro leaders of the "civil rights" movement, has enveloped himself in a mystery that is puzzling many people inside and outside of Congress. Just why should he announce after a conference with U. N. Ambassador Arthur Goldberg a four-point program which urges the United States to consider halting its bombing raids on North Viet Nam and also to reverse its poiicy and favor the seating of Red China in the United Nations?

David Lawrence

This view is considered by many persons in Washington to be favorable to the Communist side. Certain senators in statements inserted in The Congressional Record ask why Dr. King was accompanied to his meeting with Ambassador Goldberg by Bayard Rustin, his special consultant, who is accused of having been a member of the Young Communist League.

Sen. Thomas J. Dodd, Democrat, of Connecticut, said:

"When Dr. Martin Luther King takes advantage of his pulpit as the prime leader of the civil rights movement in this country, to call for the admission of Red China to the United Nations; to demand that the United States commit itself to negotiate with the Viet Cong; and to advocate that the U. S. reorient its foreign policy along the lines of accommodation with Communism, then I can only regret that the leader of the civil rights movement, by his intemperate alignment with the forces of appeasement in foreign policy, has alienated much of the support which he previously enjoyed in Congress . . .

"The enemies of the civil rights movement have repeatedly made the charge that Dr. King is under Communist influence. I have myself defended Dr. King against this charge. But by the stand he has now taken on the whole series of vital foreign policy issues, I gravely fear that Dr. King has provided his own enemies and the enemies of the movements he heads with ammunition that they will know only too well how to use."

SEN. STROM THURMOND, Republican of South Carolina, not only criticized Dr. King severely, but called it "a disgrace to the country that Ambassador Goldberg would officially receive such persons as Martin Luther King and Bayard Rustin, and thereby lend credence to an appearance of official respectability of these two troublemakers."

"Bayard Tustin's qualifications are better documented in the public record, in that he was reported in the press to have been a member of the Young Communist League. . . . .

"It is indeed a sad commentary that even the existence of such persons is acknowledged to the extent of an audience with a high official of the government."

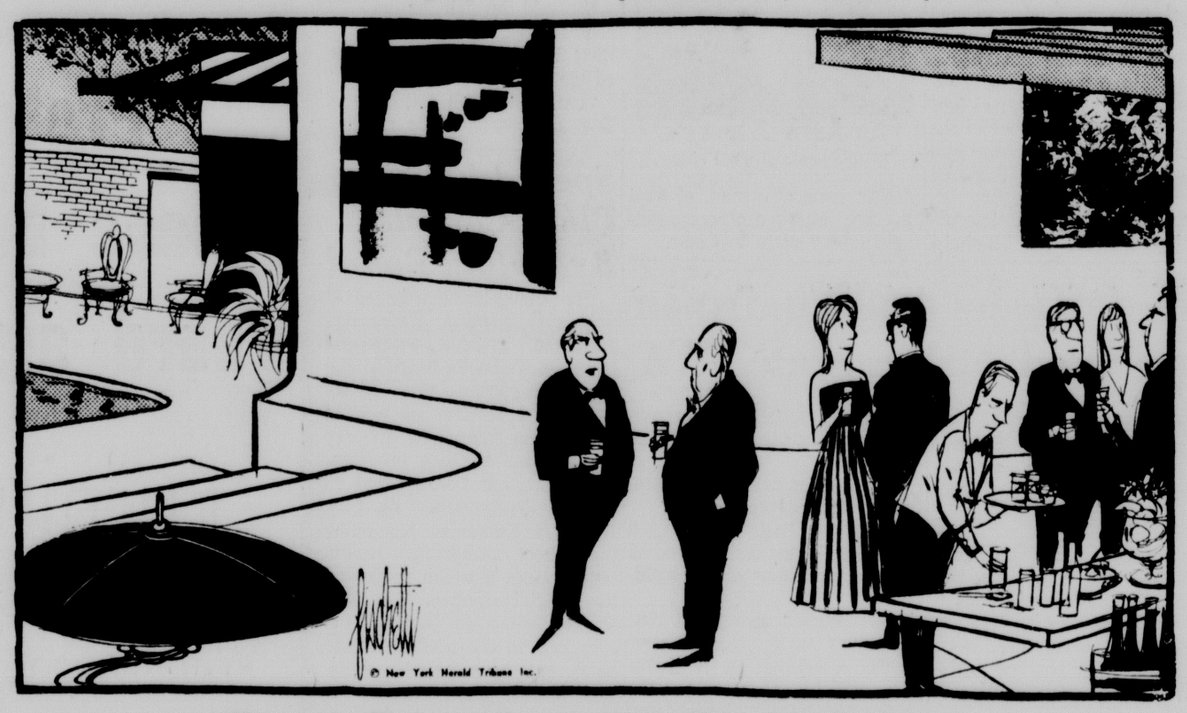
Dr. King has since announced that he will write letters within the next 10 days to the president of North Viet Nam, the government of South Viet Nam, and the leaders of the governments of Communist China and the Soviet Union.

If Dr. King carries on a correspondence with foreign governments, it could run counter to the provisions of the Logan Act, a federal statute which says:

"Any citizen of the United States, wherever he may be, who, without authority of the United States, directly or indirectly commences or carries on any correspondence or intercourse with any foreign government or any officer or agent thereof, with intent to influence the measures or conduct of any foreign government or of any officer or agent thereof, in relation to any disputes or controversies with the United States, or to defeat the measures of the United States, shall be fined not more than $5,000 or imprisoned not more than three years, or both."

THE MERE FACT that Dr. King was received by the U. N. ambassador, who is the personal representative of the President of the United States, may give rise to a wrong impression.

It could justify a belief that while what Dr. King is doing now in his correspondence with foreign governments may not have the authorization of the President as to its substance, it has a kind of tacit approval, inasmuch as no action has been or probably will be taken to stop his efforts to engage in a peace movement by direct correspondence with hostile governments.



'However, There's A Lot To Be Said For Dog Eat Dog.'

Hoffa Charts Stoppage Without Strike

By VICTOR RIESEL

BOSTON

An MIT professor, who, at Jim Hoffa's personal invitation, lived with him night and day for months, reports that the Teamsters' chief executive has developed strategy for a coast-to-coast trucking stoppage without actually calling a national strike.

Victor Riesel

Hoffa has pinpointed six terminal cities so strategically located that walkouts there would in turn soon cripple the nation's entire over-the-road transportation system.

But Jim Hoffa at the moment hardly is contemplating using such power. Today Hoffa is more herbivorous than carnivorous. This is his gentle season. You might call it his Ted White era—the making of a president—1966. That's the year of the next Teamsters' convention. "Jimmy H." wants to be unanimously re-elected despite his two federal convictions.

SO IF HIS union is not careful it will get to be known as the beloved brotherhood. It has run free puppet shows for the children. It has—for free—moved a junior college from one site to another.

It is raising money for scholarship and charities, and that's where James Riddle Hoffa comes in. He has hit the road as an itinerant guest of honor at Teamsters' fund-raising banquets.

And he is doing right well. I've just been over in Springfield (Mass.) where I learned the details of one testimonial to the general president. The plans call for Hoffa to be greeted by Springfield's mayor, C. V. Ryan.

At the banquet itself, the toastmaster will be none other than County District Atty. Matthew J. Ryan Jr. These celebrities are not scheduled to be alone.

AMONG THE other honored guests on the list are Congressman Edward P. Boland, member of the House Appropriations Committee, and Bernard P. Alpert, National Labor Relations Board director in New England.

After this September breadbreaking with so many dignitaries, Hoffa is scheduled to be honored in New York City at a gala banquet on Oct. 17. A massive dining hall has been rented and the city's traffic jam will ease that night. Thousands of truck drivers will come to eat and cheer for their supper.

Thus Hoffa will pursue cause after cause across the country and calendar, reaching out to the rank and file at each stop, until he can no longer look a grapefruit or fruitcup in the eye.

But this making of a union president, which will be climaxed in Miami Beach next July, unless the federal marshals get him first, is not limited to the roast beef circuit.

To these personal appearances, Hoffa has imaginatively added a new technique. He permitted an MIT professor and the latter's wife to be with him every waking moment of some three months during the past two years.

THE PROFESSOR, Ralph James, and the lady, an economist, have had entry to Hoffa's personal files. They've arrived unannounced at his headquarters. They've traveled with him, listened to his phone conversations and sat with him during negotiations.

He would introduce them as "eggheads from the Teamsters' second floor." At times they were disguised as part of the national bargaining teams.

Actually, Hoffa challenged the professor, a dispassionate chap, to travel with him for six months, never to leave his side from early morning to late at night.

It was not quite that intense. But Prof. James and his lady did stick pretty close to the whirlwind. They've got it all down in a book which should be along one of these days in time for the truck driving proletariat to get a full view of their leader.

Of all the verbiage, one section leaped out at this observer. Hoffa has studied all the routes of the nation—highways and trails. He now knows exactly how to tie up this land.

HE INSISTS that he never will call an industry-wide truck stoppage. Nonetheless, he has earmarked six terminal cities which could be so shut down that without their terminal operations the nation's trucking would be substantially halted.

Thus, Hoffa would not need to call a national strike. The effect would be the same. By transfer points, he simply would force hundreds of thousands of over-the-road Teamsters to be laid off.

This would, in turn, force the states to pay them unemployment insurance. Thus Hoffa would not need to concern himself with the biggest headache of a national shutdown—millions of dollars a week in strike relief.

Such a Teamsters' president would have almost as much power as a U.S. President on the home front if his people were with him.

Confusion Added

By James Marlow

WASHINGTON

Sen. J. W. Fulbright of Arkansas has denounced the Johnson administration's handling of the Dominican Republic revolt while practically excusing President Johnson of the blame.

This just adds confusion to a situation which was already a little foggy. And Fulbright, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, admits he is now talking from the "benefit of hindsight."

But Fulbright might have no complaint at all if Johnson could have waited for the benefit of hindsight before deciding it was necessary to send Marines into the Dominican Republic. Then he might have acted differently.

Briefly, this was the background:

A few days after the revolt began last April against a reactionary regime in the Dominican Republic Johnson announced he was sending in Marines to protect American lives.

Shortly afterwards he gave another reason: Fear that Communists might try to take over.

But Johnson acted on the advice of the American "country team" in the Dominican Republic — members of various American agency and military groups there — and with the advice of Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara.

When he made the decision to use troops, Johnson called leading members of Congress to the White House, including Fulbright, to explain his actions.

Sen. Russell B. Long, Louisiana Democrat who disagrees with Fulbright's speech of Wednesday, was at that White House meeting and says nobody, including Fulbright, raised a dissenting voice.

Later, when it turned out the Communists were not in control of the revolution, Johnson got some criticism on the use of troops but he said he'd rather be criticized for his action than not to have acted.

Now, more than four months later, with the revolt ended and a new provisional government established in the Dominican Republic as a preliminary to elections in about nine months, Fulbright ripped into Johnson's action.

Yet, he said: "On the basis of the information and counsel he (Johnson) received, the President could hardly have acted other than he did; it is very difficult to understand however why so much unsound advice was given him."

But Fulbright also said: "The reason (for American intervention) appears to be that very close to the beginning of the revolution U.S policymakers decided that it should not be allowed to succeed."

The senator offers no proof of this charge although his statement will be widely read in Latin America and may antagonize non-Communist Latin Americans who wish to throw out reactionary regimes and provide a better life for their people.

Fulbright said the "danger to American lives was more a pretext than a reason for the massive U.S intervention."

Yet, while Fulbright says the evidence doesn't "establish" that the Communists at any time actually controlled the revolution, he said "there is little doubt that they had influence within the revolutionary movement, but the degree of that influence remains a matter of speculation."

By this statement Fulbright is acknowledging that even now it is not fully known how great a force the Communists were in the revolution at the time Johnson used troops to prevent their taking over.

Fulbright put it this way: "The issue is not whether there was Communist influence in the Dominican revolution but its degree, which is something on which reasonable men can differ.

"The burden of proof, however, is on those who take action, and the administration has not proven its assertion of Communist control."

But if Johnson and his advisers knew the Communists were involved — which Fulbright admits — but couldn't know then, since nobody yet knows how deeply they were involved, then the President faced this question:

Should he wait until it became clear beyond doubt that the Reds had grabbed control before sending in Marines? If he did, it might have meant war with a new Red-run Dominican government. When the United states found out how much of a Communist Fidel Castro was, it was too late to squelch him.

And no American president can possibly sit back and do nothing if Reds attempt to take over any country in Latin America. As Johnson said later, he'd rather be critized for his action than not to have acted.

The Beaver County Planning Commission has disclosed its broad master plan for the area's development.

We wish it success, with the firm feeling that what's good for Beaver will prove good for East Liverpool and the immediate area. The greater the progress in the district as a whole, the greater the prospect of industrial development that will benefit all communities through greater job opportunities, bigger payrolls, with increased consumer buying, and a general betterment in many directions.

The commission offered these words of caution, however, that should not be forgotten be it in Beaver, East Liverpool or any other area:

"Success of the plan hinges on cooperation and implementation by the municipalities."

In other words, all must put their shoulders to the wheel if the desired results are to be forthcoming.

Central Intervention Agency

The American way of life is broad enough to cover a multitude of fumbles, but its limits are being stretched by the Central Intelligence Agency.

Latest offense against popular feeling by this strange organization inside the U.S. government is the revelation that the government of South Viet Nam has asked for withdrawal of three U.S. officials accused of political plotting against the long-term political interests of the Saigon government. Two of these are CIA agents. The third is a political officer in the U.S. Embassy in Saigon.

The general nature of the offense, as disclosed in allegations by Saigon, is that CIA agents had conspired with certain Vietnamese who take a dim view of the central government. The apparent purpose of the conspiracy was to set up a hostile minority among hill-country tribesmen and tell it how to negotiate with lowland politicians for a better deal.

Saigon's animosity was fired up by the prevailing opinion among the lowland politicians who dominate the South Viet Nam capital that hill-country tribesmen are inferior and should not be taken seriously.

The upshot of the incident is a measurable increase in the mistrust with which officials of South Viet Nam are forced to hold an ally and benefactor who repeatedly has intervened in their political affairs.

No one can be so naive as to believe governments do not nib into one another's affairs whenever they think they can get away with it.

But many of us can believe that when this is done it should be done so adroitly there is no danger of being caught, not even of being accused.

The Central Intervention Agency, formerly the Central Intelligence Agency, is being caught too often. It is fumbling away its hold on popular confidence.

Letter From Max

By Martin Miller

Dear Truman Twill:

You probably know more about Herodotus, the ancient Greek called the "father of history," than I do, but here is an item about him, in case you missed it.

Some historians consider Herodotus a joker. That may be because of his writing that old Egyptian leaders dreamed up a lot of government ideas when drunk and then when they had sobered up chewed the ideas over and acted upon the ones they wanted to keep.

You know what modern cynics are going to say. They are going to say the process is just reversed nowadays; that lawmakers and executives take sober ideas, revamp them and put them into practice when they are drunk.

Your comment that sweet corn was not as flavorful this year because of drought reminds me of the constant cry of adults that cooking today isn't as good as mother's or grandmother's was.

It is the appetite that flags, not the food.

The corn this year tasted wonderful to me. Also the tomatoes and cucumbers.

Nice to hear that Leroy (Satchel) Paige is returning to the majors, this time with the Kansas City Athletics. One of my treasured sports memories is having seen him pitch for the Cleveland Indians in 1948.

It is one thing to meet force with force, as was done in Korea and is being done in Viet Nam. But when it comes to completely eliminating communism by force that is another thing.

Communism, besides being a conspiracy, is an idea and there are an awful lot of ideas kicking around in the world which have withstood centuries of force.

In all the conjecture about the future of the Republican party, nothing has been said about how almost everybody loves an underdog. The GOP is sure to profit from that.

Now that you are filling the air with tales of your adventurous vacation to the West Coast, some time when you are backed into a corner and have no escape I'll have to tell you about the time I drove two ladies to California. Only trouble is that to make my story sound as adventurous as it was I should give the year it took place—and that was a long time ago.

Also I could tell you about my Uncle Charley, who about the time of World War I was superintendent of motive power of the Union Pacific Railroad, whose hospitality I believe you enjoyed on your trip.

Faithfully yours,
MAX

King's Action Stirs Some Questions

By DAVID LAWRENCE

David Lawrence

The Reverend Martin Luther King Jr., one of the Negro leaders of the "civil rights" movement, has enveloped himself in a mystery that is puzzling many people inside and outside of Congress. Just why should he announce after a conference with U. N. Ambassador Arthur Goldberg a four-point program which urges the United States to consider halting its bombing raids on North Viet Nam and also to reverse its poiicy and favor the seating of Red China in the United Nations?

This view is considered by many persons in Washington to be favorable to the Communist side. Certain senators in statements inserted in The Congressional Record ask why Dr. King was accompanied to his meeting with Ambassador Goldberg by Bayard Rustin, his special consultant, who is accused of having been a member of the Young Communist League.

Sen. Thomas J. Dodd, Democrat, of Connecticut, said:

"When Dr. Martin Luther King takes advantage of his pulpit as the prime leader of the civil rights movement in this country, to call for the admission of Red China to the United Nations; to demand that the United States commit itself to negotiate with the Viet Cong; and to advocate that the U. S. reorient its foreign policy along the lines of accommodation with Communism, then I can only regret that the leader of the civil rights movement, by his intemperate alignment with the forces of appeasement in foreign policy, has alienated much of the support which he previously enjoyed in Congress . . .

"The enemies of the civil rights movement have repeatedly made the charge that Dr. King is under Communist influence. I have myself defended Dr. King against this charge. But by the stand he has now taken on the whole series of vital foreign policy issues, I gravely fear that Dr. King has provided his own enemies and the enemies of the movements he heads with ammunition that they will know only too well how to use."

SEN. STROM THURMOND, Republican of South Carolina, not only criticized Dr. King severely, but called it "a disgrace to the country that Ambassador Goldberg would officially receive such persons as Martin Luther King and Bayard Rustin, and thereby lend credence to an appearance of official respectability of these two troublemakers."

"Bayard Tustin's qualifications are better documented in the public record, in that he was reported in the press to have been a member of the Young Communist League. . . . .

"It is indeed a sad commentary that even the existence of such persons is acknowledged to the extent of an audience with a high official of the government."

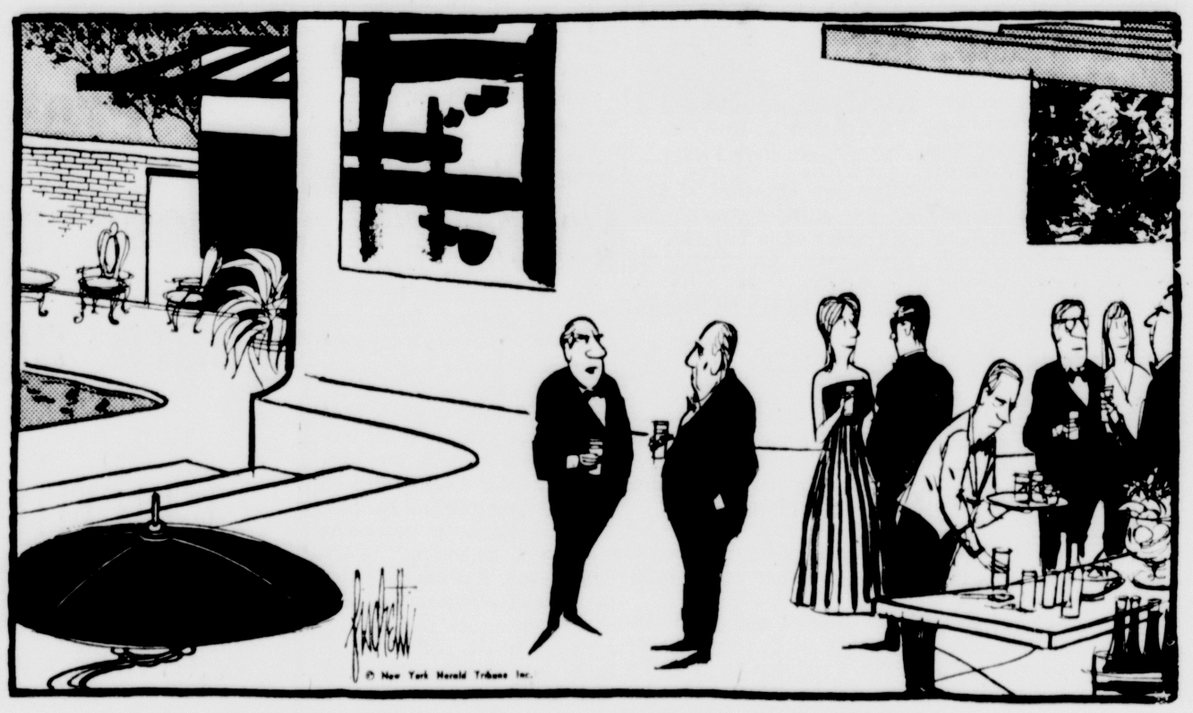
Dr. King has since announced that he will write letters within the next 10 days to the president of North Viet Nam, the government of South Viet Nam, and the leaders of the governments of Communist China and the Soviet Union.

If Dr. King carries on a correspondence with foreign governments, it could run counter to the provisions of the Logan Act, a federal statute which says:

"Any citizen of the United States, wherever he may be, who, without authority of the United States, directly or indirectly commences or carries on any correspondence or intercourse with any foreign government or any officer or agent thereof, with intent to influence the measures or conduct of any foreign government or of any officer or agent thereof, in relation to any disputes or controversies with the United States, or to defeat the measures of the United States, shall be fined not more than $5,000 or imprisoned not more than three years, or both."

THE MERE FACT that Dr. King was received by the U. N. ambassador, who is the personal representative of the President of the United States, may give rise to a wrong impression.

It could justify a belief that while what Dr. King is doing now in his correspondence with foreign governments may not have the authorization of the President as to its substance, it has a kind of tacit approval, inasmuch as no action has been or probably will be taken to stop his efforts to engage in a peace movement by direct correspondence with hostile governments.



'However, There's A Lot To Be Said For Dog Eat Dog.'

Hoffa Charts Stoppage Without Strike

By VICTOR RIESEL

BOSTON

An MIT professor, who, at Jim Hoffa's personal invitation, lived with him night and day for months, reports that the Teamsters' chief executive has developed strategy for a coast-to-coast trucking stoppage without actually calling a national strike.

Victor Riesel

Hoffa has pinpointed six terminal cities so strategically located that walkouts there would in turn soon cripple the nation's entire over-the-road transportation system.

But Jim Hoffa at the moment hardly is contemplating using such power. Today Hoffa is more herbivorous than carnivorous. This is his gentle season. You might call it his Ted White era—the making of a president—1966. That's the year of the next Teamsters' convention. "Jimmy H." wants to be unanimously re-elected despite his two federal convictions.

SO IF HIS union is not careful it will get to be known as the beloved brotherhood. It has run free puppet shows for the children. It has—for free—moved a junior college from one site to another.

It is raising money for scholarship and charities, and that's where James Riddle Hoffa comes in. He has hit the road as an itinerant guest of honor at Teamsters' fund-raising banquets.

And he is doing right well. I've just been over in Springfield (Mass.) where I learned the details of one testimonial to the general president. The plans call for Hoffa to be greeted by Springfield's mayor, C. V. Ryan.

At the banquet itself, the toastmaster will be none other than County District Atty. Matthew J. Ryan Jr. These celebrities are not scheduled to be alone.

AMONG THE other honored guests on the list are Congressman Edward P. Boland, member of the House Appropriations Committee, and Bernard P. Alpert, National Labor Relations Board director in New England.

After this September breadbreaking with so many dignitaries, Hoffa is scheduled to be honored in New York City at a gala banquet on Oct. 17. A massive dining hall has been rented and the city's traffic jam will ease that night. Thousands of truck drivers will come to eat and cheer for their supper.

Thus Hoffa will pursue cause after cause across the country and calendar, reaching out to the rank and file at each stop, until he can no longer look a grapefruit or fruitcup in the eye.

But this making of a union president, which will be climaxed in Miami Beach next July, unless the federal marshals get him first, is not limited to the roast beef circuit.

To these personal appearances, Hoffa has imaginatively added a new technique. He permitted an MIT professor and the latter's wife to be with him every waking moment of some three months during the past two years.

THE PROFESSOR, Ralph James, and the lady, an economist, have had entry to Hoffa's personal files. They've arrived unannounced at his headquarters. They've traveled with him, listened to his phone conversations and sat with him during negotiations.

He would introduce them as "eggheads from the Teamsters' second floor." At times they were disguised as part of the national bargaining teams.

Actually, Hoffa challenged the professor, a dispassionate chap, to travel with him for six months, never to leave his side from early morning to late at night.

It was not quite that intense. But Prof. James and his lady did stick pretty close to the whirlwind. They've got it all down in a book which should be along one of these days in time for the truck driving proletariat to get a full view of their leader.

Of all the verbiage, one section leaped out at this observer. Hoffa has studied all the routes of the nation—highways and trails. He now knows exactly how to tie up this land.

HE INSISTS that he never will call an industry-wide truck stoppage. Nonetheless, he has earmarked six terminal cities which could be so shut down that without their terminal operations the nation's trucking would be substantially halted.

Thus, Hoffa would not need to call a national strike. The effect would be the same. By transfer points, he simply would force hundreds of thousands of over-the-road Teamsters to be laid off.

This would, in turn, force the states to pay them unemployment insurance. Thus Hoffa would not need to concern himself with the biggest headache of a national shutdown—millions of dollars a week in strike relief.

Such a Teamsters' president would have almost as much power as a U.S. President on the home front if his people were with him.

Confusion Added

By James Marlow

WASHINGTON

Sen. J. W. Fulbright of Arkansas has denounced the Johnson administration's handling of the Dominican Republic revolt while practically excusing President Johnson of the blame.

This just adds confusion to a situation which was already a little foggy. And Fulbright, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, admits he is now talking from the "benefit of hindsight."

But Fulbright might have no complaint at all if Johnson could have waited for the benefit of hindsight before deciding it was necessary to send Marines into the Dominican Republic. Then he might have acted differently.

Briefly, this was the background:

A few days after the revolt began last April against a reactionary regime in the Dominican Republic Johnson announced he was sending in Marines to protect American lives.

Shortly afterwards he gave another reason: Fear that Communists might try to take over.

But Johnson acted on the advice of the American "country team" in the Dominican Republic — members of various American agency and military groups there — and with the advice of Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara.

When he made the decision to use troops, Johnson called leading members of Congress to the White House, including Fulbright, to explain his actions.

Sen. Russell B. Long, Louisiana Democrat who disagrees with Fulbright's speech of Wednesday, was at that White House meeting and says nobody, including Fulbright, raised a dissenting voice.

Later, when it turned out the Communists were not in control of the revolution, Johnson got some criticism on the use of troops but he said he'd rather be criticized for his action than not to have acted.

Now, more than four months later, with the revolt ended and a new provisional government established in the Dominican Republic as a preliminary to elections in about nine months, Fulbright ripped into Johnson's action.

Yet, he said: "On the basis of the information and counsel he (Johnson) received, the President could hardly have acted other than he did; it is very difficult to understand however why so much unsound advice was given him."

But Fulbright also said: "The reason (for American intervention) appears to be that very close to the beginning of the revolution U.S policymakers decided that it should not be allowed to succeed."

The senator offers no proof of this charge although his statement will be widely read in Latin America and may antagonize non-Communist Latin Americans who wish to throw out reactionary regimes and provide a better life for their people.

Fulbright said the "danger to American lives was more a pretext than a reason for the massive U.S intervention."

Yet, while Fulbright says the evidence doesn't "establish" that the Communists at any time actually controlled the revolution, he said "there is little doubt that they had influence within the revolutionary movement, but the degree of that influence remains a matter of speculation."

By this statement Fulbright is acknowledging that even now it is not fully known how great a force the Communists were in the revolution at the time Johnson used troops to prevent their taking over.

Fulbright put it this way: "The issue is not whether there was Communist influence in the Dominican revolution but its degree, which is something on which reasonable men can differ.

"The burden of proof, however, is on those who take action, and the administration has not proven its assertion of Communist control."

But if Johnson and his advisers knew the Communists were involved — which Fulbright admits — but couldn't know then, since nobody yet knows how deeply they were involved, then the President faced this question:

Should he wait until it became clear beyond doubt that the Reds had grabbed control before sending in Marines? If he did, it might have meant war with a new Red-run Dominican government. When the United states found out how much of a Communist Fidel Castro was, it was too late to squelch him.

And no American president can possibly sit back and do nothing if Reds attempt to take over any country in Latin America. As Johnson said later, he'd rather be critized for his action than not to have acted.

In his address to the drive workers, White emphasized the United Fund is a three - way project — health, welfare and character building.

Gilroy said "Pledges of non-Beaver County residents are sent to the charity organizations in their own areas."

In his address to the drive workers, White emphasized the United Fund is a three - way project — health, welfare and character building.

As a campaign slogan, he paraphrased the late President John F. Kennedy's statement, "Ask not what the United Fund can do for you, but what you can do for the United Fund."

'Open House' Plans Are Set For Agencies

BEAVER — The seven United Fund agencies of Beaver County have completed plans for "open house" Saturday and Sunday to offer the public an opportunity to see their fund dollars at work.

Participating will be the Beaver Valley YMCA, 3rd Ave., New Brighton; the Association for the Blind Workshop, 616-4th Ave., Beaver Falls; the Children's Home, Penn Ave., New Brighton; Girl Scouts' Camp Fombelina, Route 68, Fombell; Home for the Aged, 1405 3rd Ave., New Brighton; Lintz Retarded Children's Workshop, 117 Brighton Ave., Rochester, and the Red Cross Blood Bank, 1305 3rd Ave., New Brighton.

Inspection hours Saturday will be 10 a.m to 4 p.m. and Sunday 1:30 to 5:30 p.m

Tours will be conducted, and there is a possibility that some national and local TV celebrities will be on hand for the open houses.

The agency open house program will serve to kickoff the 1965 United Funds of Beaver County campaign solicitations to raise $864,490 which supports 43 agencies serving over 50,000 people annually.

Wheat Allotment Notices Mailed In Beaver County

BEAVER — The Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation office of Beaver County has begun mailing notices of farm wheat allotments.

In many cases, the farm allotments for 1966 are smaller than in 1965.

ASCS committee chairman Glen Campbell offered the following explanation.

"Farm allotments are smaller because the national wheat acreage allotment is smaller. For 1965, the national allotment was 49.5 million acres. For 1966, it has been reduced to 47.8 million acres — down 1.7 million acres, or about 3.4 per cent. The law also provides for a small-farm acreage increase the same as for the 1964 and 1965 crops. This would increase the national allotment about 4 million acres for a total national effective allotment of approximately 52 million acres.

"By law, the national acreage allotment is established at an amount which, based on expected yields, will produce a quantity of wheat equal to anticipated needs. The quantity of wheat needed for 1966 is about the same as was needed for 1965, but with a general increase in yields fewer acres are required to produce this amount."

The chairman said that the decision was made to send out the allotments at this time so farmers would have as much time as possible to plan their farming operations for next year.

Teacher Welfare Discussed At Meeting Of Association

Teacher welfare and communication were the primary discussion topics when the Executive Council of the East Liverpool Teachers Association met Tuesday night at Westgate School. Twenty-five attended.

The directors and the building representatives comprise the Council and will meet jointly for the next few months because of a crowded agenda of business.

David Wern discussed the present insurance program and reported that it will remain in force since no new program is being considered at present.

Mrs. Gyla Nicely reported on her attendance at the Leadership Conference at Kent this summer. She stressed the need for welcoming new teachers and helping them to be oriented in their work.

A report on credit union was given and interested personnel were requested to contact Jerry Russell, principal at East Junior High, for further information.

A recommendation was made to send cards to hospitalized members of the association.

The Blood Bank was reported to be in operation and a request for further contributions was made.

Following adjournment of the Council meeting, the directors convened in regular session.

Lillie Belle Leonard, treasurer, was authorized to attend an OEA Salary School in Columbus Oct. 9.

On Oct. 12, the State Board of Education will conduct an open hearing on a proposed set of new standards for junior and senior high schools. The study, requested by the OEA Executive Committee, also will afford local associations the opportunity to submit ideas for consideration.

A general meeting of the association, the first for the new term, will be held Oct. 7, with Board of Education candidates being invited to attend. Jack Wilson, chairman of the Citizenship Committee, will be in charge of this phase of the meeting.

Austen B. Moore, president, presided. The next meetings of the Executive Council will be Oct. 4 and 25 at 7:15 p. m. in the Westgate Junior High School Library.

Ray Snyder School Mothers Map Plans

Homeroom mothers of the Ray Snyder School in Industry will meet today at the home of the hospitality chairman, Mrs. Earl Rankin of Sunrise Hills in Industry.

Plans will be discussed for the Halloween, Christmas and Valentine parties to be given the children by the group. The schedule for serving refreshments at the Parent - Teacher Association meetings also will be completed.

Hints from Heloise

— By Heloise Cruse —

Dear Folks: It's getting near the time to clean out our closets, separate garments, store some, keep some back for a while, etc.

Let me give you a few notes on storing out-of-season things.

NEVER, never, never store a soiled garment. In other words, if it has been worn once, don't store it.

Though you can't always see a perspiration stain, it just might be on the garment, and the colors can change or the fibers deteroriate. Don't allow this to happen.

Either have it dry cleaned WITHOUT having it pressed, or you can dryclean it in a self-service cleaning machine and not press it yourself until the next season. (I think this is a very good idea because, after clothes are stored, they usually have to be re-pressed anyhow, eh?

Or wash it without ironing it.

NEVER starch anything you plan to store, because bugs love starch!

Why wash and iron a garment, then pack it away? You will just have to re-iron it when you take it out next season. Besides, it might be too tight, or out - of - style, so you won't wear it, and you'd have wasted your energy ironing it!

Why not spend that precious energy and time baking a cake, or a batch of cookies, for your family?

HELOISE.

Dear Heloise: I wanted to transfer some after-shave lotion from a large bottle to a smaller one, but most of these containers have very small openings so that you have to shake them to get the liquid out.

I took the fingertip dispenser from my wife's bottle of hand lotion and pumped warm water through it so it would be clean. Then I placed the plastic pipe into the hole in the tall container and held the small container up to the curved spout. By pumping the dispenser, in just a few seconds I had the small container filled with aftershave lotion, and didn't spill a drop.

I look forward each day to reading your column.

Letter Of Laughter

DEAR HELOISE — LIGHT OF MY LIFE: Have you ever wondered what to do with the kids' lively turtles while you clean out their tanks?

Place 'em tummyside up, of course!

LAVON MARTZ.

DEAR HELOISE: I need your help! How on earth do you pour cake batter into cake pans (for a two or three layer cake) so you will have the same amount of batter in each pan, and your cake layers will be even in size????

I always seem to end up with one layer bigger than the others! Any suggestions?

"PUZZLED."

-:-

I'm puzzled, too! Do any of you gals have the answer to this uneven problem? If so, drop me a line in care of this paper. Letters do not have to be signed to appear in the column.

HELOISE.

DEAR HELOISE: You will feel so clever you will hardly mind the ironing if you slather cream or moisturizer on your face, and let the steam and warmth from the iron give you a facial as you go along!

BEVERLY BROWN.

DEAR HELOISE: I had the misfortune to drop a bottle of shampoo in the shower and cut my foot.

Now I put my shampoo, rinse, and hair set in plastic mustard dispensers that I bought at the dime store.

They are perfect for squeezing out just the right amount, no damage done if they are dropped, and it can't spill out.

Industrial Output Increased In August

WASHINGTON (AP)—A record output of commercial and industrial machinery helped push the nation's industrial production slightly ahead last month, a Federal Reserve Board report shows.

Iron and steel output dropped 4 per cent from July to August and has slackened further since settlement of the steel labor dispute Sept. 5, the board said.

The offsetting trends left the production index for August at 144.4, combared with 144.2 in July and 138.6 in January. The monthly gain was the smallest since April but marked the 10th straight month of advance.

110 Seniors Are Invited

Annual Crucible Program To Be Held For Students

The Midland Works of the Crucible Steel Co. will hold its third annual symposium Sept. 24 to acquaint 110 outstanding area high school seniors with the various academic fields and opportunities in the steel industry.

Ten outstanding seniors from each of the area's 11 high schools are expected to attend.

Schools invited to participate are Midland, Western Beaver, South Side, Beaver, Rochester, Monaca, New Brighton, Beaver Falls, East Liverpool, Beaver Local and Wellsville.

This year's program has been broadened to include the fields of accounting, sales and employe relations. It also has been expanded to allow more students to attend. Previously, only two outstanding students from each of the 11 area schools were invited.

The symposium will be in two parts — the first lectures on various fields in the industry and the second a tour of mill areas.

The program will begin at 9 a. m. at the Crucible Management Club. John P. Strand, assistant works manager, will give the welcome and A. L. Breakiron, superintendent of community relations, will outline the objectives of the program.

Illustrated talks or lectures also will point out the opportunities in the various fields of engineering, metallurgy, operations, technology and research.

Students will be provided lunch at the plant's management dining room, where Guy F. McCracken, works manager, will speak to them briefly. A tour of the mill areas will follow. The day's program will conclude at 4 p.m.

Transportation for most students will be provided by the company.

Appeal Will Be Filed In Traffic Conviction

A Chester youth indicated he will appeal his conviction Wednesday on a traffic violation to Hancock County Circuit Court.

Charles LaScola, 18, decided to appeal after being fined $10 and costs by Squire John D. Herron of New Cumberland yesterday on a charge of failing to have his vehicle under control.

LaScola was cited Sept. 6 on Route 66 by sheriff's deputies.

On Franklin's promise of future sobriety, the court dismissed the charges against him Tuesday and gave him $1 to buy a meal. That same night, Franklin was arrested on an intoxication charge in Apple Alley. His court appearance was delayed until today.

The judge also imposed a fine of $50 and costs on Paul Erwin, 339 Lisbon St., Wellsville, arrested on an intoxication charge Tuesday at 4:08 p. m. on the Diamond. Erwin also was remanded to the County Jail in default of payment.

Reapportioning Hopes Mounting

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) — Republican and Democratic negotiators on the legislative reapportionment problem met for 90 minutes Wednesday and then adjourned until today.

One of the three Republican members indicated his side was annoyed yesterday when Democrats called a 2 a. m. news conference to disclose details of a GOP proposal they considered particularly objectionable.

36-Foot Stage Means Flood At Wellsville

A level of 36 feet now will mean flood stage at Wellsville, based on readings on a new Ohio River gauge in the lower pool of the New Cumberland dam at Stratton, the U. S. Weather Bureau at Pittsburgh said today.

The former reference point, based on readings at the old Dam 8 near Newell, listed flood stage as 32 feet in Wellsville, according to Paul F. Jacoby, meteorologist in charge of the Weather Bureau office.

The 36-foot stage is equivalent to a mean sea level elevation of 672.5 feet for the Ohio River at Wellsville, Jacoby explained.

It's the latest in a series of new flood stage readings issued for communities along the upper Ohio as a result of a change in the system of gauges, he added. Before old Dam 8 was dismantled with completion of the Stratton dam, Wellsville's flood stage was based on 32 feet.

As a guideline, Jacoby said the March 1936 flood would have been equivalent to a 54.3 - foot stage on the dam's lower pool gauge and 51.2 feet at old Dam 8.

During times of high water, it will be the responsibility of the Federal - Stage Flood Forecasting Service, with offices in the Weather Bureau, to issue crest forecasts for the benefit of Wellsville, referenced to the dam's lower pool gauge, Jacoby said.

Forecasts of 33 feet or over will be furnished to the Wellsville fire department to be relayed to the public, Jacoby said. Wellsville residents should contact the fire department for official flood information during high water, he added.

Jacoby said a 33-foot stage would be equivalent to a mean sea level elevation of 669.7 feet for the river at Wellsville.

United Fund Drive Picks 3 For Division Chairmen

Chairmen of three divisions of the East Liverpool Area United Fund were announced today by Richard Martin, head of the 1966 campaign which will begin Oct. 4.

Mrs. J. Donald Thompson of Park Blvd. again will head the Advanced Gifts and Professional Division.

Edgar Shingler of Imperial Dr. will direct the Public Service Division.

James McGowan of Broadview Circle will head the Mercantile Division.

Mrs. Thompson, active in Red Cross and many other civic and community programs, was in charge of the advanced gifts and professional division during the 1965 campaign.

Shingler, business promotion representative of the Ohio Valley Gas Co. and also active in civic groups, will supervise the drive in the Public Service Division, which includes utilities and schools.

The Mercantile B Division, which includes small businesses, will be directed by McGowan of the Professional Mercantile Collection Co. and a representative of the Catholic Service Bureau, which joined the United Fund this year.

Other division chairmen currently are being chosen and will be announced later, Martin said.

A $115,000 goal has been set for the campaign, up from the $110,000 goal of 1965, which the community achieved for the third year in a row.

The increased figure is due primarily to the addition of the Catholic charities unit, along with a boost in the budget for the United Service Organization, which provides entertainment for servicemen.

During times of high water, it will be the responsibility of the Federal - Stage Flood Forecasting Service, with offices in the Weather Bureau, to issue crest forecasts for the benefit of Wellsville, referenced to the dam's lower pool gauge, Jacoby said.

Forecasts of 33 feet or over will be furnished to the Wellsville fire department to be relayed to the public, Jacoby said. Wellsville residents should contact the fire department for official flood information during high water, he added.

Jacoby said a 33-foot stage would be equivalent to a mean sea level elevation of 669.7 feet for the river at Wellsville.

United Fund Drive Picks 3 For Division Chairmen

Chairmen of three divisions of the East Liverpool Area United Fund were announced today by Richard Martin, head of the 1966 campaign which will begin Oct. 4.

Mrs. J. Donald Thompson of Park Blvd. again will head the Advanced Gifts and Professional Division.

Edgar Shingler of Imperial Dr. will direct the Public Service Division.

James McGowan of Broadview Circle will head the Mercantile Division.

Mrs. Thompson, active in Red Cross and many other civic and community programs, was in charge of the advanced gifts and professional division during the 1965 campaign.

Shingler, business promotion representative of the Ohio Valley Gas Co. and also active in civic groups, will supervise the drive in the Public Service Division, which includes utilities and schools.

The Mercantile B Division, which includes small businesses, will be directed by McGowan of the Professional Mercantile Collection Co. and a representative of the Catholic Service Bureau, which joined the United Fund this year.

Other division chairmen currently are being chosen and will be announced later, Martin said.

A $115,000 goal has been set for the campaign, up from the $110,000 goal of 1965, which the community achieved for the third year in a row.

The increased figure is due primarily to the addition of the Catholic charities unit, along with a boost in the budget for the United Service Organization, which provides entertainment for servicemen.

Out Of The Air

By RICHARD DOAN

CBS Plans Tour Of The Vatican

If negotiations now under way pan out, Princess Grace of Monaco will conduct a TV filmed tour of the Vatican to be shown on the CBS network sometime early next year.

Richard Doan

TV up to now has been granted extremely limited access to the Rome sanctuary of the Roman Catholic Church. Nothing resembling a tour of the complex has been permitted.

Whether Pope Paul VI, who will make an unprecedented trip to New York on Oct. 4 to address the United Nations, will appear on the TV program is not known.

-:-

PRINCESS GRACE, the former American movie star Grace Kelly, is understood already to have agreed to conduct the proposed stroll through the church edifices.

Several years ago the former actress and her husband, Prince Rainier, appeared on a CBS filmed tour of their postage-stamp-sized Mediterranean domain.

The filmed Vatican visit would be a joint production of CBS and United Artists TV.

Efforts have been made to keep the project quiet "because a lot of protocol is involved," a reliable source said.

This informant reported that final Vatican approval is expected, but has not yet been received.

-:-

IF THERE are elections in Great Britain this fall, there's a good chance they'll get the sort of Huntley-Brinkley computerized coverage to which TV audiences here were introduced last year.

NBC News is planning to ship an "election central" setup and perhaps both Chet Huntley and David Brinkley to London to report returns to the States via Early Bird satellite if the Liberal party government of Prime Minister Harold Wilson decides to call elections.

The earliest this could happen would be November.

Whether Britons would see any of the NBC coverage of their balloting remains to be determined. There is a possibility, its understood that BBC might take a feed on the telecast.

NBC's use of computers reportedly would pose the possibility that Americans would know the outcome of the British voting before Britons did, if the BBC did not carry the NBC reports.

-:-

FOR NICOLAS COSTER as well as Eileen Fulton, there's a silver lining in the demise of CBS' short-lived prime - time soap opera, "Our Private World."

Miss Fulton, as Lisa Hughes, was pulled out of daytime's top-rated "As the World Turns" and made a central figure in the experimental evening series. Coster has portrayed John Eldridge, a man in love with Lisa.

Miss Fulton, now that the nighttime serial is ending, is being restored to the storyline of the daytimer—and so, too, it develops, is Coster.

And John still will be in love with Lisa.

-:-

IN SHORT . . .

Carl T. Rowan, recently resigned director of the U.S. Information Agency and former ambassador to Finland, will begin in November doing several news commentaries weekly for the Westinghouse Broadcasting group of radio and TV stations . . .

Within a day after NBC televised its 3½-hour "American White Paper" on foreign policy last week, broadcasters in Australia, Denmark, Sweden, Germany and Puerto Rico ordered prints for showing in their countries. The network said prints had been requested for audition also by TV systems in Japan, Spain, England and Mexico . . .

Caterina Valente, one of the regulars of last season's ill-fated "The Entertainers" series on CBS, has been booked to guest star on Danny Kaye's show on Oct. 6 and Jan. 12 . . .

ABC News reported that its London correspondent, Ray Maloney, who arrived in Karachi last Sunday to cover the Pakistani side of the war with India, was shot at three times during his first day on the job there. Indian jets fired on him and a camera team as they raced along a road from the front with film of the hostilities.

Bringing Up A Family

By Dr. GARRY MYERS

Nervous Child Craves Love, Attention

Suppose you had a boy, 7, who could be pretty accurately described as in the following letter from a mother in Indiana: "I do not know exactly how to begin this letter, for at this time I'm very upset. I have three children, ages four, six, and seven. The seven - year-old is the one we are having trouble with.

Dr. Garry Myers

"Joe is very nervous, sensitive and high - strung. He has no particular interest in anything. Joe plays with the children in our neighborhood but says he doesn't play with the kids in his room at school.

"In the first grade he did very well as far as grades go and scored high on the readiness test, IQ, etc. This year he is carrying a D average and scored low on all his tests.

—:—

"I'M VERY nervous but I have really tried everything I know to help him even though I'm not sure what his problem is.

"I've been patient, stern, and we have taken privileges away and everything else we could think of, even talking to him and asking him if there was anything at all bothering him or if there was anything in particular that he likes or wants to do. But Joe says there is nothing bothering him and there is nothing he wants to do that he's not doing now.

"He craves love and attention and maybe I don't know how to give it right since I never had any at home when I was young. This letter must be confusing to you but I'm so confused myself and don't really know what's wrong, except I feel a child should be interested in something and care about something.

"Is it Joe or myself that is causing the trouble?"

—:—

MY REPLY in part:

As I've tried to imagine myself in your place, I conclude that you don't need scolding, but encouragement. You seem to be unduly worried that your boy, who once did well at school learning, is now doing poorly in the second grade.

You seem to think he should evince some special interests as if he were 15 or an adult. He must have felt considerable interests in all those items he did so well at in the first grade.

You and I are strongly interested in what we do well. For some reasons which you have not discovered, Joe has not been succeeding this year in learning at school. How can he feel interested in his schoolwork when he is not succeeding at it?

Seeing how you are upset over his lag at school, his discouragements pile up. I hope you never again nag at him about his lagging interest or school grades.

—:—

TRY TO find out from the school what you may do at home to help him enjoy more success at reading, spelling, and other subjects. Perhaps you will finally need the personal help of an expert or a tutor.

In the meantime you and Dad should read to this boy every day. Try to enjoy him as a person and to have good times with him. Put yourself in his place and imagine how he feels.

No doubt he supposes he does not stand as well with you parents and your relatives and friends as the younger children do. Sit down together, you and Dad, and consider ways to help this boy feel more loved, more secure, more worthwhile and for all your family to have good times together.

—:—

ATTRACT to your home some boys of Joe's age, when you can study him and help him become a better playmate. Encourage him in ample outdoor fun with them. Protect him from too great fatigue and excitement.

Limit his TV viewing. Rule out programs of violence. I assume you have had him checked by his physician.

Try to calm down yourself, relax more, and get more recreation. To this end, advice from your physician might be helpful.

Attorney Leaving Americus Due To Threats, Harassment

AMERICUS, Ga. (AP) — An attorney who tried to help solve Americus racial problems has sent his wife and five children to Atlanta because of threats and harassment and is getting out of town himself.

"There's no reason to stay," said attorney Warren Fortson, 37, brother of Georgia's secretary of state, Ben W. Fortson Jr. "My law practice has come to a screeching halt."

The former Marine said Wednesday he knew he was going to have to leave when he advocated formation of a biracial commission during the height of recent racial demonstrations in this south Georgia city.

"It was just like getting into a canoe in the Colorado River," he said. "Once you're committed to the rapids there's nothing you can do but ride them out."

Then, when the demonstrations subsided, Fortson said, "the freeze set in."

His wife, Betty, went to a meeting of the Junior League, he said, and "when she walked in, it was just like she was invisible. Nobody saw her."

Officially, Fortson remained attorney for Sumter County, but he said it was in name only. "The county has hired another firm to do its work. They don't come to me any more."

In addition, the attorney was not re-elected as a Sunday School teacher at the First Methodist Church.

His pastor, the Rev. Vernard Robertson, declined comment when told Fortson was leaving town. Local officials also refused to comment.

The attorney said he was leaving Americus as soon as he closes his law office. "I'm not sure where we will live, whether it will be in Atlanta or someplace else. But I had to get my family out of Americus."

Fortson said telephone threats and harassments were aimed at making existence unhappy for himself and his family but that there had been no direct threats on his life.

His wife said in Atlanta, "It just wasn't worth it any more. It's just like closing a door."

Schools Across U.S. Frown On Boys' 'Beatle' Haircuts

NEW YORK (AP) — Those puddles on the barber shop floor are the tears shed by America's youth forced to cut their locks as the price of education.

Boys' Beatle-like tresses grown long with the summer days fell into disfavor with the opening of schools across the country.

Bizarre makeup is being scrubbed from the faces of girls, and some school principals are carrying around rulers to see that hemlines don't show too much knee.

Among the tabooes turned up in a nationwide survey by The Associated Press are:

Beatle haircuts, tight pants, short skirts, high heels, metal cleats, culottes, jeans, slacks, shorts, Elvis sideburns, Zulu hair ratting, Diamond Lil makeup, bare-midriffs, off-the-shoulder dresses, open back, sandals and bee-hive hairdos.

"We're advising a few of our boys we'd appreciate them getting to a barber, but we're not trying to ram it down their throats," said principal Herbert H. Bishop, principal of Manhattan High School in Kansas.

A less casual attitude is taken by the private schools. "I say to him, 'I think you need a haircut.' He says, 'yes, sir,' and that's it," said Carl W. Andrews Jr. of Collegiate School in New York.

Principals say styles are a little more conventional this year.

The principal of a Little Rock, Ark., high school grabbed the problem by the forelock. Boys were told to abandon their Beatle cuts or show up for classes with hair ribbons. They got their hair cut.

After school officials in Fairfax County, Va., ruled that long hair was out, 20 students at Thomas Jefferson High School got haircuts before classes the next day.

Barbers at a shop near the school reported some of the boys cried when their hair was cut off.

But a dozen students picketed the school. One sign read, "Do you have to be bald for an education?" Said another: "At $1.75 who can afford haircuts?"

Many of the problems of girls' dresses may be taken care of by the boys. Said Steve Seymour, 18, a senior at Raleigh, N.C., "some dresses are kinda sickening when they come above the knee."

CBS Plans Tour Of The Vatican

If negotiations now under way pan out, Princess Grace of Monaco will conduct a TV filmed tour of the Vatican to be shown on the CBS network sometime early next year.

Richard Doan

TV up to now has been granted extremely limited access to the Rome sanctuary of the Roman Catholic Church. Nothing resembling a tour of the complex has been permitted.

Whether Pope Paul VI, who will make an unprecedented trip to New York on Oct. 4 to address the United Nations, will appear on the TV program is not known.

-:-

PRINCESS GRACE, the former American movie star Grace Kelly, is understood already to have agreed to conduct the proposed stroll through the church edifices.

Several years ago the former actress and her husband, Prince Rainier, appeared on a CBS filmed tour of their postage-stamp-sized Mediterranean domain.

The filmed Vatican visit would be a joint production of CBS and United Artists TV.

Efforts have been made to keep the project quiet "because a lot of protocol is involved," a reliable source said.

This informant reported that final Vatican approval is expected, but has not yet been received.

-:-

IF THERE are elections in Great Britain this fall, there's a good chance they'll get the sort of Huntley-Brinkley computerized coverage to which TV audiences here were introduced last year.

NBC News is planning to ship an "election central" setup and perhaps both Chet Huntley and David Brinkley to London to report returns to the States via Early Bird satellite if the Liberal party government of Prime Minister Harold Wilson decides to call elections.

The earliest this could happen would be November.

Whether Britons would see any of the NBC coverage of their balloting remains to be determined. There is a possibility, its understood that BBC might take a feed on the telecast.

NBC's use of computers reportedly would pose the possibility that Americans would know the outcome of the British voting before Britons did, if the BBC did not carry the NBC reports.

-:-

FOR NICOLAS COSTER as well as Eileen Fulton, there's a silver lining in the demise of CBS' short-lived prime - time soap opera, "Our Private World."

Miss Fulton, as Lisa Hughes, was pulled out of daytime's top-rated "As the World Turns" and made a central figure in the experimental evening series. Coster has portrayed John Eldridge, a man in love with Lisa.

Miss Fulton, now that the nighttime serial is ending, is being restored to the storyline of the daytimer—and so, too, it develops, is Coster.

And John still will be in love with Lisa.

"I'M VERY nervous but I have really tried everything I know to help him even though I'm not sure what his problem is.

"I've been patient, stern, and we have taken privileges away and everything else we could think of, even talking to him and asking him if there was anything at all bothering him or if there was anything in particular that he likes or wants to do. But Joe says there is nothing bothering him and there is nothing he wants to do that he's not doing now.

"He craves love and attention and maybe I don't know how to give it right since I never had any at home when I was young. This letter must be confusing to you but I'm so confused myself and don't really know what's wrong, except I feel a child should be interested in something and care about something.

"Is it Joe or myself that is causing the trouble?"

—:—

MY REPLY in part:

As I've tried to imagine myself in your place, I conclude that you don't need scolding, but encouragement. You seem to be unduly worried that your boy, who once did well at school learning, is now doing poorly in the second grade.

You seem to think he should evince some special interests as if he were 15 or an adult. He must have felt considerable interests in all those items he did so well at in the first grade.

You and I are strongly interested in what we do well. For some reasons which you have not discovered, Joe has not been succeeding this year in learning at school. How can he feel interested in his schoolwork when he is not succeeding at it?

Seeing how you are upset over his lag at school, his discouragements pile up. I hope you never again nag at him about his lagging interest or school grades.

—:—

TRY TO find out from the school what you may do at home to help him enjoy more success at reading, spelling, and other subjects. Perhaps you will finally need the personal help of an expert or a tutor.

In the meantime you and Dad should read to this boy every day. Try to enjoy him as a person and to have good times with him. Put yourself in his place and imagine how he feels.

No doubt he supposes he does not stand as well with you parents and your relatives and friends as the younger children do. Sit down together, you and Dad, and consider ways to help this boy feel more loved, more secure, more worthwhile and for all your family to have good times together.

—:—

ATTRACT to your home some boys of Joe's age, when you can study him and help him become a better playmate. Encourage him in ample outdoor fun with them. Protect him from too great fatigue and excitement.

Limit his TV viewing. Rule out programs of violence. I assume you have had him checked by his physician.

Try to calm down yourself, relax more, and get more recreation. To this end, advice from your physician might be helpful.

Attorney Leaving Americus Due To Threats, Harassment

AMERICUS, Ga. (AP) — An attorney who tried to help solve Americus racial problems has sent his wife and five children to Atlanta because of threats and harassment and is getting out of town himself.

"There's no reason to stay," said attorney Warren Fortson, 37, brother of Georgia's secretary of state, Ben W. Fortson Jr. "My law practice has come to a screeching halt."

The former Marine said Wednesday he knew he was going to have to leave when he advocated formation of a biracial commission during the height of recent racial demonstrations in this south Georgia city.

"It was just like getting into a canoe in the Colorado River," he said. "Once you're committed to the rapids there's nothing you can do but ride them out."

Then, when the demonstrations subsided, Fortson said, "the freeze set in."

His wife, Betty, went to a meeting of the Junior League, he said, and "when she walked in, it was just like she was invisible. Nobody saw her."

Officially, Fortson remained attorney for Sumter County, but he said it was in name only. "The county has hired another firm to do its work. They don't come to me any more."

In addition, the attorney was not re-elected as a Sunday School teacher at the First Methodist Church.

His pastor, the Rev. Vernard Robertson, declined comment when told Fortson was leaving town. Local officials also refused to comment.

The attorney said he was leaving Americus as soon as he closes his law office. "I'm not sure where we will live, whether it will be in Atlanta or someplace else. But I had to get my family out of Americus."

Fortson said telephone threats and harassments were aimed at making existence unhappy for himself and his family but that there had been no direct threats on his life.

His wife said in Atlanta, "It just wasn't worth it any more. It's just like closing a door."

Schools Across U.S. Frown On Boys' 'Beatle' Haircuts

NEW YORK (AP) — Those puddles on the barber shop floor are the tears shed by America's youth forced to cut their locks as the price of education.

Boys' Beatle-like tresses grown long with the summer days fell into disfavor with the opening of schools across the country.

Bizarre makeup is being scrubbed from the faces of girls, and some school principals are carrying around rulers to see that hemlines don't show too much knee.

Among the tabooes turned up in a nationwide survey by The Associated Press are:

Beatle haircuts, tight pants, short skirts, high heels, metal cleats, culottes, jeans, slacks, shorts, Elvis sideburns, Zulu hair ratting, Diamond Lil makeup, bare-midriffs, off-the-shoulder dresses, open back, sandals and bee-hive hairdos.

"We're advising a few of our boys we'd appreciate them getting to a barber, but we're not trying to ram it down their throats," said principal Herbert H. Bishop, principal of Manhattan High School in Kansas.

A less casual attitude is taken by the private schools. "I say to him, 'I think you need a haircut.' He says, 'yes, sir,' and that's it," said Carl W. Andrews Jr. of Collegiate School in New York.

Principals say styles are a little more conventional this year.

The principal of a Little Rock, Ark., high school grabbed the problem by the forelock. Boys were told to abandon their Beatle cuts or show up for classes with hair ribbons. They got their hair cut.

After school officials in Fairfax County, Va., ruled that long hair was out, 20 students at Thomas Jefferson High School got haircuts before classes the next day.

Barbers at a shop near the school reported some of the boys cried when their hair was cut off.

But a dozen students picketed the school. One sign read, "Do you have to be bald for an education?" Said another: "At $1.75 who can afford haircuts?"

Many of the problems of girls' dresses may be taken care of by the boys. Said Steve Seymour, 18, a senior at Raleigh, N.C., "some dresses are kinda sickening when they come above the knee."

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: I wish you'd stop telling us married women to thank God our husbands are still alive and to pick up the phone and invite a widow to a party.

If YOU want to do the widows a favor, Ann Landers, please print these helpful hints on how to get along:

1. Be self-sufficient, widows. Don't expect your brothers, neighbors, cousins and friends to drive you to the market, the cleaners, the doctor, the post office or to church like your husband did.

2. If you are invited to join another couple, please sit in the back seat. Don't plunk yourself in the front beside the husband.

3. When we invite you to dinner, please don't do all the talking. Our husbands are tired. They would rather read or listen to a ball game.

4. Please drop the phrase, "When Sidney was alive." It's depressing.

If you husbandless females would pay attention to some of these hints perhaps you wouldn't be so lonely. — OUTSPOKEN.

-:-

Dear Outspoken: I expect I'll be hearing from a few widows as a result of your letter. Any comments, ladies?

Guilty Conscience

Dear Ann: I used to think only a creep would write to Ann Landers but I guess everybody writes to you sooner or later when they need to talk to someone.

Please tell me what to do about this certain girl. I'll call her Jane although that isn't her real name.

We went steady for four months. She was a real sweet kid but a little square, I thought. Very hipped on religion and like that.

Jane doesn't know too much about sports, which is what I'm interested in mainly, so mostly we necked. She didn't put up much of an argument when we went from one thing to the next because I told her if a girl really cares about a fellow she should be willing to prove it.

I'm ashamed to tell you I got her to go all the way two weeks ago. I felt like a heel and took her straight home. I haven't called her since because I don't know what to say. Frankly, I'd be happy if she moved out of town or at least switched schools so I wouldn't have to see her again.

Why do I feel so lousy about this? It wasn't Jane's fault. It was mine. But I keep telling myself if she was the right kind of girl she would have stopped me. Am I nuts or what? — TOM.

-:-

Dear Tom: You aren't nuts. You're a boy with a guilty conscience. Jane allowed you to do something that made you think poorly of yourself and now you want nothing to do with her.

What you did was not only morally wrong and potentially dangerous but also inconsiderate and selfish. I hope you have learned from this experience that sex is not a plaything.

Victim Of Custom

Dear Ann: My parents were born in Eastern Europe and I'm afraid some of their old country ideas will ruin my life.

I'm 26 years old and have been going with a fine man for four years. We want to be married but my parents say I cannot marry until my older sister does. They insist that when a younger sister marries first, it spoils the older sister's chances.

I should tell you that my sister is 31. She has no interest in men and I suspect she never will. Of course I can't tell my folks this and neither can she. Please give me some level-headed advice. — PAYING.

Dear Paying: Set the date and get married. No explanations and no apologies are necessary.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Review, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Coaches See Potter-Midland Battle Friday As Tossup

Ask Bob McNea at East Liverpool or Joe Cochran at Midland the question of what to expect Friday night when the two schools clash at Patterson Field and you'll get pretty much the same answer.

Both coaches look for a tough game and the meeting between the inter-state rivals must be declared a tossup.

When asked about Midland after watching the Leopards defeat Mohawk, McNea said "Midland has a tremendous team, they will be bigger on the line than we are and I was impressed with passers."

"Midland didn't show off too much offense but stuck pretty well to off tackle plays against Mohawk but their backfield is fast and they have a fine offensive line," McNea added.

Cochran said "I thought East Liverpool played pretty much under wraps Saturday but they probably have the best backfield we will face all season. I don't know how much passing to expect it will depend on who will start at quarterback."

"I feel the game will go right down to wire and I look for an even battle all the way," Cochran said.

Midland, besides having a weight edge on the forward wall, also has more experience at every position. The Leopards have 13 lettermen back and all saw quite a bit of action last season. The Potters show six regulars back from the 1964 season and in the opener against Beaver Local showed two seniors starting who never played football before with a pair of sophomores.

McNea pointed out one lineup change in the offensive unit while Chuck Winters, first team quarterback, was still a large question mark in the Potters plans.

"Winters was still under doctor's care Wednesday and whether he'll be able to play Friday remains doubtful, "McNea said.

With Winters in the lineup, the Potters would carry more of a passing threat. If Winters isn't ready, Mike Goodballet, who did a good job of running the team against Beaver Local, would move over from his left halfback spot and take over the quarterbacking chores.

Goodballet didn't display much passing against Beaver Local as he tried only five aerials while completing only one short pass but did run the ball well when he had the opportunity.

The only change so far for the Potters will be at right end where Rich Rowley, 165-pound sophomore, has come up with a leg injury and will be replaced by Jimmy Jones, a 162-pound senior, who is trying football for the first time.

The remainder of the lineup will be the same as started against Beaver Local, Nick Marchbanks will go at right halfback with Larry Long at fullback and Jim Gooding draws Goodballet's spot at left half.

Giants Get By Astros, 3-2; Push Lead To 3½

Reds Gain Second As Dodgers Lose

BY JIM HACKLEMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Frank Linzy is a funny fellow. And he's helping the San Francisco Giants laugh all the way to the National League pennant.

The laconic rookie from Oklahoma with the snappy wit and the sinkerball to match proved again Wednesday night that he's one of the best relief pitchers in the business when he nailed down the Giants' 13th straight victory — a 3-2 squeaker over the Houston Astros.

Linzy replaced Bob Shaw in the eighth inning with one run in, one man on, none out and the score tied 2-2. He faced only five men, recorded six outs, and finished the night with his sixth victory in a row on Willie McCovey's game-winning single in the ninth.

Willie Mays played a key role — an inevitable development in the Giants' spectacular drive. The Wondrous One singled in the game's first run in the fourth and scored the winner in the ninth, racing to second when his sizzler down the first base line got through Walt Bond for an error, then coming in on McCovey's liner off Bond's glove.

The win kept San Francisco a comfortable 3½ games ahead in the race for the flag. The Cincinnati Reds took over second place, beating the New York Mets 2-1 behind Jim Maloney's pitching, while the Los Angeles Dodgers dropped to third with an 8-6 loss to the Chicago Cubs.

Also in the NL — Milwaukee snapped its losing string at three games, downing Philadelphia 4-2 with the help of a throwing error by Bobby Wine; and Curt Flood rapped out five hits and drove in five runs as St. Louis whipped Pittsburgh 7-3.

Maloney, bringing his record to 19-7, also singled in the deciding run against the Mets as the Reds scored both their runs in the second inning. Four straight singles got the job done — by Deron Johnson, Johnny Edwards, Leo Cardenas and Maloney. Ed Kranepool hit a homer for New York's run.

The Dodgers took a 3-0 lead in the first inning, but the Cubs drove Don Drysdale from the mound in the second inning when he was hit in the foot by a line drive off the bat of Ernie Banks. Then they made the most of their errors and singles by Harvey Kuenn and pitcher Dick Ellsworth for three runs and a 5-3 lead in the fifth inning.

Tony Cloninger brought his record to 22-9 for the Braves, who scored three runs in the seventh inning. Two came in on Wine's throwing error and Hank Aaron doubled in the third. Wes Covington hit a homer for the Phillies.

Flood doubled in a run in the third inning for the Cardinals, singled home two more in the fourth, smacked a run-producing single in the sixth and singled home another run in a three-run ninth that nailed it against the Pirates.

THE BIG THREE for Giants Wednesday night were left-to-right Bob Shaw, Willie Mays and Frank Linzy. The Giants won 3-2 as Shaw went seven innings during which he tripled driving in a run and was relieved in the seventh by Linzy. Oliva Still Has Shot At Hitting Title

By LEW FERGUSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

MINNEAPOLIS-St. Paul (AP) — Tony Oliva, needing all the chances at base hits he can get in the waning days of the baseball season, won't be sitting on the bench any if he can help it.

He professes not to be thinking about winning a second straight American League batting championship, but he betrays his true feelings by what he says and does.

Oliva was forced out of Minnesota's 7-5 victory over Kansas City Wednesday night with a pulled muscle behind his right knee.

As the Twins were winning their seventh in a row, reducing their number for clinching the pennant to six and holding their lead at a solid 10 games, Oliva lost two chances to bat. He departed in the fourth inning after beating out an infield hit. It was a hard shot which the pitcher deflected and the shortstop couldn't reach in time.

That hit — after Tony drove in his 96th run of the season with a sacrifice fly in the first inning — raised his batting average one point to .318.

That's four points behind Boston's Carl Yastrzemski, who doubled in three trips Wednesday night to remain at .322. Oliva won the 1964 batting title with .323 when he was the A.L's Rookie of the Year.

The presidents of the United States opposed each other earlier in their political careers for the office of vice president.

More Police Advocated For Football Contests

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — More police protection and local supervision probably is the best answer to youthful rowdyism which could jeopardize night high school football games in Ohio, the state high school athletic commissioner said today.

Commissioner Paul E. Landis said he favored that approach over such drastic action as that of the Toledo city school board, which banned night games two years ago and now allows them only on Saturday mornings or afternoons.

The commissioner referred to incidents of the first football weekend last week in which police cracked down swiftly on the stoning of a Columbus football bus and the wounding of a 17-year-old Hamilton player following games. In another incident, a band of about 20 youths stoned a car after a Warren Harding High School game in Warren.

Landis emphasized that such problems are local and not at the state level but added: "I liked the way these incidents were handled and the stern warnings that they were not going to be allowed."

Columbus police promised severe steps to prevent outbursts such as the one in which a Columbus Watterson bus was stoned after its team defeated Columbus South 52-8. One youth was injured.

Police in Hamilton moved in quickly to arrest a youth who admitted he fired a birdshot blast that wounded Ronnie Sutton, 17-year-old Hamilton Garfield co-captain, in the leg. Ten students were cited and ordered to appear in juvenile court.

Police in Columbus attributed the disturbances to "dropouts and hoodlums," not the students, and announced intentions not to let them succeed in ending night football.

Hamilton School Supt. Lester L. Dickey and local police worked out a plan to help prevent rowdyism. "We felt we ought to control the games rather than give them to a small group of troublemakers," Dickey said.

Their plan includes stepped up police patrols, making certain streets "off limits" to students after games, and asking teachers to ride with patrolmen to help identify any student causing a disturbance.

Toledo School Supt. Frank Dick declined to comment on the city's night game ban except to say, "It is the adopted policy of the board of education and it will remain in effect this season."

But other spokesmen said attendance at games of the 10 City League teams "has dropped terrifically" and predicted the ban will be lifted.

Coaches See Potter-Midland Battle Friday As Tossup

Ask Bob McNea at East Liverpool or Joe Cochran at Midland the question of what to expect Friday night when the two schools clash at Patterson Field and you'll get pretty much the same answer.

Both coaches look for a tough game and the meeting between the inter-state rivals must be declared a tossup.

When asked about Midland after watching the Leopards defeat Mohawk, McNea said "Midland has a tremendous team, they will be bigger on the line than we are and I was impressed with passers."

"Midland didn't show off too much offense but stuck pretty well to off tackle plays against Mohawk but their backfield is fast and they have a fine offensive line," McNea added.

Cochran said "I thought East Liverpool played pretty much under wraps Saturday but they probably have the best backfield we will face all season. I don't know how much passing to expect it will depend on who will start at quarterback."

"I feel the game will go right down to wire and I look for an even battle all the way," Cochran said.

Midland, besides having a weight edge on the forward wall, also has more experience at every position. The Leopards have 13 lettermen back and all saw quite a bit of action last season. The Potters show six regulars back from the 1964 season and in the opener against Beaver Local showed two seniors starting who never played football before with a pair of sophomores.

McNea pointed out one lineup change in the offensive unit while Chuck Winters, first team quarterback, was still a large question mark in the Potters plans.

"Winters was still under doctor's care Wednesday and whether he'll be able to play Friday remains doubtful, "McNea said.

With Winters in the lineup, the Potters would carry more of a passing threat. If Winters isn't ready, Mike Goodballet, who did a good job of running the team against Beaver Local, would move over from his left halfback spot and take over the quarterbacking chores.

Goodballet didn't display much passing against Beaver Local as he tried only five aerials while completing only one short pass but did run the ball well when he had the opportunity.

The only change so far for the Potters will be at right end where Rich Rowley, 165-pound sophomore, has come up with a leg injury and will be replaced by Jimmy Jones, a 162-pound senior, who is trying football for the first time.

The remainder of the lineup will be the same as started against Beaver Local, Nick Marchbanks will go at right halfback with Larry Long at fullback and Jim Gooding draws Goodballet's spot at left half.

Giants Get By Astros, 3-2; Push Lead To 3½

Reds Gain Second As Dodgers Lose

BY JIM HACKLEMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Frank Linzy is a funny fellow. And he's helping the San Francisco Giants laugh all the way to the National League pennant.

The laconic rookie from Oklahoma with the snappy wit and the sinkerball to match proved again Wednesday night that he's one of the best relief pitchers in the business when he nailed down the Giants' 13th straight victory — a 3-2 squeaker over the Houston Astros.

Linzy replaced Bob Shaw in the eighth inning with one run in, one man on, none out and the score tied 2-2. He faced only five men, recorded six outs, and finished the night with his sixth victory in a row on Willie McCovey's game-winning single in the ninth.

Willie Mays played a key role — an inevitable development in the Giants' spectacular drive. The Wondrous One singled in the game's first run in the fourth and scored the winner in the ninth, racing to second when his sizzler down the first base line got through Walt Bond for an error, then coming in on McCovey's liner off Bond's glove.

The win kept San Francisco a comfortable 3½ games ahead in the race for the flag. The Cincinnati Reds took over second place, beating the New York Mets 2-1 behind Jim Maloney's pitching, while the Los Angeles Dodgers dropped to third with an 8-6 loss to the Chicago Cubs.

Also in the NL — Milwaukee snapped its losing string at three games, downing Philadelphia 4-2 with the help of a throwing error by Bobby Wine; and Curt Flood rapped out five hits and drove in five runs as St. Louis whipped Pittsburgh 7-3.

Maloney, bringing his record to 19-7, also singled in the deciding run against the Mets as the Reds scored both their runs in the second inning. Four straight singles got the job done — by Deron Johnson, Johnny Edwards, Leo Cardenas and Maloney. Ed Kranepool hit a homer for New York's run.

The Dodgers took a 3-0 lead in the first inning, but the Cubs drove Don Drysdale from the mound in the second inning when he was hit in the foot by a line drive off the bat of Ernie Banks. Then they made the most of their errors and singles by Harvey Kuenn and pitcher Dick Ellsworth for three runs and a 5-3 lead in the fifth inning.

Tony Cloninger brought his record to 22-9 for the Braves, who scored three runs in the seventh inning. Two came in on Wine's throwing error and Hank Aaron doubled in the third. Wes Covington hit a homer for the Phillies.

Flood doubled in a run in the third inning for the Cardinals, singled home two more in the fourth, smacked a run-producing single in the sixth and singled home another run in a three-run ninth that nailed it against the Pirates.

THE BIG THREE for Giants Wednesday night were left-to-right Bob Shaw, Willie Mays and Frank Linzy. The Giants won 3-2 as Shaw went seven innings during which he tripled driving in a run and was relieved in the seventh by Linzy. Willie Mays was on base twice, driving home one run and scoring another. (UPI Telephoto)

More Police Advocated For Football Contests

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — More police protection and local supervision probably is the best answer to youthful rowdyism which could jeopardize night high school football games in Ohio, the state high school athletic commissioner said today.

Commissioner Paul E. Landis said he favored that approach over such drastic action as that of the Toledo city school board, which banned night games two years ago and now allows them only on Saturday mornings or afternoons.

The commissioner referred to incidents of the first football weekend last week in which police cracked down swiftly on the stoning of a Columbus football bus and the wounding of a 17-year-old Hamilton player following games. In another incident, a band of about 20 youths stoned a car after a Warren Harding High School game in Warren.

Landis emphasized that such problems are local and not at the state level but added: "I liked the way these incidents were handled and the stern warnings that they were not going to be allowed."

Columbus police promised severe steps to prevent outbursts such as the one in which a Columbus Watterson bus was stoned after its team defeated Columbus South 52-8. One youth was injured.

Oliva Still Has Shot At Hitting Title

By LEW FERGUSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

MINNEAPOLIS-St. Paul (AP) — Tony Oliva, needing all the chances at base hits he can get in the waning days of the baseball season, won't be sitting on the bench any if he can help it.

He professes not to be thinking about winning a second straight American League batting championship, but he betrays his true feelings by what he says and does.

Oliva was forced out of Minnesota's 7-5 victory over Kansas City Wednesday night with a pulled muscle behind his right knee.

As the Twins were winning their seventh in a row, reducing their number for clinching the pennant to six and holding their lead at a solid 10 games, Oliva lost two chances to bat. He departed in the fourth inning after beating out an infield hit. It was a hard shot which the pitcher deflected and the shortstop couldn't reach in time.

That hit — after Tony drove in his 96th run of the season with a sacrifice fly in the first inning — raised his batting average one point to .318.

That's four points behind Boston's Carl Yastrzemski, who doubled in three trips Wednesday night to remain at .322. Oliva won the 1964 batting title with .323 when he was the A.L's Rookie of the Year.

The presidents of the United States opposed each other earlier in their political careers for the office of vice president.

5 Of British Team To Face Elimination

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — Five of the eight members of the strong British Walker Cup team faced elimination going into the second round of the new-style National Amateur Golf Championship today, and their American counterparts were faring only a little better.

Two of the 10 American Walker Cuppers who came from behind to salvage a tie at Baltimore were almost certain of elimination when the bulky field is reduced to the low 60 and ties after the second of four 18-hole rounds. Three others are on shaky ground.

Jim Vickers, an oil company executive from Wichita, Kan., with a cross-handed putting grip and Jim Grant, a University of Houston student shared the lead with two-under-par 69s after Wednesday's opening round in the first National Amateur at medal instead of match play.

None of the leaders — there were six to break par on the 6,917-yard Southern Hills Country Club course — had complaints about the new format or two experimental speed-up rules the U.S Golf Association instituted for the tourney. But that's no upset. The leaders rarely complain.

And the British had no complaints about the wilting heat of the blazing Oklahoma sun that pushed temperatures to 98. And that's no upset, either. The stiff upper lip was stiff as ever.

"We've no complaints," said Joe Carr, three-time British Amateur champion and captain of their Walker Cup team. "The heat didn't make that much difference. We're just not playing well at all."

Carr had an eagle on the back nine — just missing a double eagle — and still had a 77. With a score of about 153 probably necessary to make the cut, that puts him in trouble, along with Rodney Foster and Peter Townsend, with 79s, Clive Clark, 78, and Ronnie Shade, 80. Gordon Cosh may make it with a first round 76. Mike Bonallack, the current British Amateur champ, led the foreign delegation with a 72.

American Walker Cuppers in jeopardy are Dave Eichelberger, Waco, Tex., 77, and Downing Gray, Pensacola, Fla., 81. Possibles at 76 are Ed Tutwiler, Indianapolis; Mark Hopkins, Texas City, Tex., and Dr. Ed Updegraff, Tucson, Ariz.

Tied at 70 were Deane Beman, the two-time champion from Bethesda, Md., and the favorite for this one, Walker Cupper Don Allen of Rochester, N.Y; Tommy Barnes, 20-year-old university of Georgia student and Ray Terry, son of baseball Hall of Famer Bill Terry.

At even par 71 were Cesar Senudo, El Cajon, Calif.; Jim Tom Blair, St. Louis; Charles Lewis, Santee, Calif., and Bob Dickson, Muskogee, Okla.

Defending champion Bill Campbell, Huntington, W.Va., had a creditable 73.

Bobby Jones Son Playing Well At Tulsa

By WILL GRIMSLEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — Robert Tyre Jones III finally is getting accustomed to playing in the shadow of his dad, the immortal Bobby Jones — but it hasn't been easy.

"I'll admit at first it was a little disturbing to me to get up on the tee and hear myself introduced as the son of the great Bob Jones," the younger Bobby, 38, a successful soft-drink distributor in Pittsfield, Mass., said today. "Now I've gotten hardened to it and so have the fans — they know I am a hacker."

No hacker but at the same time no champion, Robert Tyre the third shot a 37-42—79 Wednesday in the opening rounds of the 65th National Amateur Golf Championship.

"One time in Memphis in 1948 — I got on the tee and the announcer gave my father's entire history of accomplishment," Jones said. "I proceeded to cold top the ball — I didn't get off the tee.

"This is my fourth Amateur but I've never gone beyond the second round. My business is the soft drink business, not golf. I'm strictly a weekend player. That's the way dad wanted it."

Robert was three when his father completed the unprecedented Grand Slam in 1930 and then retired.

Modell Feels All-Star Contest Should Rotate

CLEVELAND (AP) — Art Modell, president of the National Football League champion Cleveland Browns, says the annual game with the College All-Stars should rotate to other NFL cities.

Modell said Wednesday the summer game in Chicago between the NFL champ and collegians has "outlived its usefulness as now constituted. One idea would be to rotate it to various league cities."

The Browns president made his remarks at Sigma Delta Chi journalism fraternity luncheon.

Modell, said the Browns, who beat the All-Stars 24-16 Aug. 6 at Soldier Field, will lose something like $30,000. The game drew 68,000 and Modell said "I'm sure we could have had 80,000 people in the (Cleveland) Stadium for it here this summer."

Modell also touched on the NFL exhibition season.

"I'm sick and tired of this long exhibition season," he said. "It's difficult to sustain the attitude of the players." He has suggested cutting the pre-season schedule to three games when the NFL expands to 16 teams by 1967.

While their president was discussing the future of the NFL, the Browns temporarily lost the services of defensive back Walter Beach at practice.

Beach suffered a muscle pull and had to leave the field. The extent of his injury won't be known until today.

Cleveland opens the season Sunday against the Redskins in Washington.

Falcons Pick Of Coaches In Mid-Am Loop

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Mid-American Conference's football coaches figure Bowling Green to repeat as champion this season.

A poll of the seven coaches showed five picking the Falcons to win the loop title again this season. Bowling Green received 28 of a possible 30 poll points.

Selection of the Falcons came as no surprise, since most of the players on last season's talented 9-1 squad are returning this year.

However, there was one surprise as Kent State was named runner-up with 12 poll points, including five points for one first place vote. The other vote for first went to Western Michigan, which placed fifth in the pool.

Miami was rated third with 11 points and Ohio University fourth with seven points. Neither Marshall nor Toledo received any points. Each coach made first, second and third place picks.

Nonleague openers are on tap this weekend, with Bowling Green at home against Los Angeles State, Ohio entertaining West Texas State, Miami at Purdue, Toledo at Villanova, Kent at Xavier, Louisville at Western Michigan, and Morehead State at Marshall.

First Negro Umpire Set For Majors

LOS ANGELES (AP)— The first Negro umpire in major league baseball is Emmett L. Ashford, a showman on the diamond who loves the work because "the calls come from deep inside."

Ashford provides a spectacle as an umpire, with dramatic arm-flailing and gesticulating that creates excitement by friction.

"I'm the kind of person who can't stand to do anything by halves. I have my own style. It's me, and I can't change," Ashford said after his appointment was announced Wednesday.

American League President Joe Cronin said in Boston that Ashford will join a staff of 23 umpires at spring training next year.

Ashford, who will turn 47 on Nov. 23, is being brought up from the Pacific Coast League, where he has been serving for the past 12 years. He was umpire-in-chief in the last three years.

5 Of British Team To Face Elimination

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — Five of the eight members of the strong British Walker Cup team faced elimination going into the second round of the new-style National Amateur Golf Championship today, and their American counterparts were faring only a little better.

Two of the 10 American Walker Cuppers who came from behind to salvage a tie at Baltimore were almost certain of elimination when the bulky field is reduced to the low 60 and ties after the second of four 18-hole rounds. Three others are on shaky ground.

Jim Vickers, an oil company executive from Wichita, Kan., with a cross-handed putting grip and Jim Grant, a University of Houston student shared the lead with two-under-par 69s after Wednesday's opening round in the first National Amateur at medal instead of match play.

None of the leaders — there were six to break par on the 6,917-yard Southern Hills Country Club course — had complaints about the new format or two experimental speed-up rules the U.S Golf Association instituted for the tourney. But that's no upset. The leaders rarely complain.

And the British had no complaints about the wilting heat of the blazing Oklahoma sun that pushed temperatures to 98. And that's no upset, either. The stiff upper lip was stiff as ever.

"We've no complaints," said Joe Carr, three-time British Amateur champion and captain of their Walker Cup team. "The heat didn't make that much difference. We're just not playing well at all."

Carr had an eagle on the back nine — just missing a double eagle — and still had a 77. With a score of about 153 probably necessary to make the cut, that puts him in trouble, along with Rodney Foster and Peter Townsend, with 79s, Clive Clark, 78, and Ronnie Shade, 80. Gordon Cosh may make it with a first round 76. Mike Bonallack, the current British Amateur champ, led the foreign delegation with a 72.

American Walker Cuppers in jeopardy are Dave Eichelberger, Waco, Tex., 77, and Downing Gray, Pensacola, Fla., 81. Possibles at 76 are Ed Tutwiler, Indianapolis; Mark Hopkins, Texas City, Tex., and Dr. Ed Updegraff, Tucson, Ariz.

Tied at 70 were Deane Beman, the two-time champion from Bethesda, Md., and the favorite for this one, Walker Cupper Don Allen of Rochester, N.Y; Tommy Barnes, 20-year-old university of Georgia student and Ray Terry, son of baseball Hall of Famer Bill Terry.

At even par 71 were Cesar Senudo, El Cajon, Calif.; Jim Tom Blair, St. Louis; Charles Lewis, Santee, Calif., and Bob Dickson, Muskogee, Okla.

Defending champion Bill Campbell, Huntington, W.Va., had a creditable 73.

Bobby Jones Son Playing Well At Tulsa

By WILL GRIMSLEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — Robert Tyre Jones III finally is getting accustomed to playing in the shadow of his dad, the immortal Bobby Jones — but it hasn't been easy.

"I'll admit at first it was a little disturbing to me to get up on the tee and hear myself introduced as the son of the great Bob Jones," the younger Bobby, 38, a successful soft-drink distributor in Pittsfield, Mass., said today. "Now I've gotten hardened to it and so have the fans — they know I am a hacker."

No hacker but at the same time no champion, Robert Tyre the third shot a 37-42—79 Wednesday in the opening rounds of the 65th National Amateur Golf Championship.

"One time in Memphis in 1948 — I got on the tee and the announcer gave my father's entire history of accomplishment," Jones said. "I proceeded to cold top the ball — I didn't get off the tee.

"This is my fourth Amateur but I've never gone beyond the second round. My business is the soft drink business, not golf. I'm strictly a weekend player. That's the way dad wanted it."

Robert was three when his father completed the unprecedented Grand Slam in 1930 and then retired.

Modell Feels All-Star Contest Should Rotate

CLEVELAND (AP) — Art Modell, president of the National Football League champion Cleveland Browns, says the annual game with the College All-Stars should rotate to other NFL cities.

Modell said Wednesday the summer game in Chicago between the NFL champ and collegians has "outlived its usefulness as now constituted. One idea would be to rotate it to various league cities."

The Browns president made his remarks at Sigma Delta Chi journalism fraternity luncheon.

Modell, said the Browns, who beat the All-Stars 24-16 Aug. 6 at Soldier Field, will lose something like $30,000. The game drew 68,000 and Modell said "I'm sure we could have had 80,000 people in the (Cleveland) Stadium for it here this summer."

Modell also touched on the NFL exhibition season.

"I'm sick and tired of this long exhibition season," he said. "It's difficult to sustain the attitude of the players." He has suggested cutting the pre-season schedule to three games when the NFL expands to 16 teams by 1967.

While their president was discussing the future of the NFL, the Browns temporarily lost the services of defensive back Walter Beach at practice.

Beach suffered a muscle pull and had to leave the field. The extent of his injury won't be known until today.

Cleveland opens the season Sunday against the Redskins in Washington.

Falcons Pick Of Coaches In Mid-Am Loop

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Mid-American Conference's football coaches figure Bowling Green to repeat as champion this season.

A poll of the seven coaches showed five picking the Falcons to win the loop title again this season. Bowling Green received 28 of a possible 30 poll points.

Selection of the Falcons came as no surprise, since most of the players on last season's talented 9-1 squad are returning this year.

However, there was one surprise as Kent State was named runner-up with 12 poll points, including five points for one first place vote. The other vote for first went to Western Michigan, which placed fifth in the pool.

Miami was rated third with 11 points and Ohio University fourth with seven points. Neither Marshall nor Toledo received any points. Each coach made first, second and third place picks.

Nonleague openers are on tap this weekend, with Bowling Green at home against Los Angeles State, Ohio entertaining West Texas State, Miami at Purdue, Toledo at Villanova, Kent at Xavier, Louisville at Western Michigan, and Morehead State at Marshall.

First Negro Umpire Set For Majors

LOS ANGELES (AP)— The first Negro umpire in major league baseball is Emmett L. Ashford, a showman on the diamond who loves the work because "the calls come from deep inside."

Ashford provides a spectacle as an umpire, with dramatic arm-flailing and gesticulating that creates excitement by friction.

"I'm the kind of person who can't stand to do anything by halves. I have my own style. It's me, and I can't change," Ashford said after his appointment was announced Wednesday.

American League President Joe Cronin said in Boston that Ashford will join a staff of 23 umpires at spring training next year.

Ashford, who will turn 47 on Nov. 23, is being brought up from the Pacific Coast League, where he has been serving for the past 12 years. He was umpire-in-chief in the last three years.

A Junior Editors Quiz About CRABS

QUESTION: Why do crabs walk sideways?

★ ★ ★

ANSWER: The ancestors of crabs appeared about 400 million years ago. The special way of life they developed was to crawl over the ocean bottom or beach looking for bits of decaying animal or vegetable matter. Since crabs are tasty little creatures, many animals preyed on them. The crab family thus had to develop different ways of protection. Some covered themselves with seaweed; others, like the hermit crabs, concealed themselves in empty sea shells. In our picture, Mike is amused at how fierce and dangerous a crab looks. He realizes that this is mostly bluff, useful for scaring some enemy away. In the bottom picture, Mike puts the crab on the sand to see what will happen. Almost as if he realizes his bluff hasn't worked, the crab rises on the tips of his legs and scuttles off sideways. This movement is unusual among animals and probably often helps a crab make a getaway. The crab's legs are related to his body so that they bend inward, making it easier to walk sideways than to the front. Nature is always making odd experiments. If they work to help the animals survive, she lets her creatures go on using them, so crabs will probably escape by ducking off sideways for thousands of years to come.

★ ★ ★

FOR YOU TO DO: Study the little wild creatures around you to find the various methods nature has given them so that they can survive. You will find some very surprising ones.

Suit Challenges Them As Teachers

Decisions Involving Nuns In Public Schools Waited

FORT RECOVERY, Ohio (AP) —A suit challenging use of Roman Catholic nuns as public school teachers will be decided soon, but that decision probably will not be final.

Before the test case ends, the Ohio Supreme Court is expected to be asked to consider for the first time the constitutional question of nuns teaching in public schools.

Though nuns have been employed in some Ohio public schools for years, the practice was challenged only three years ago.

Atty. Gen. William Saxbe ruled in 1958 that school boards "may lawfully employ persons of any religious faith or of no faith to teach in public schools" so long as they are properly certified. Saxbe also ruled wearing of religious garb—such as a nun's habit, although he didn't specify this—is legal.

That ruling has the force of law until it is changed by a court.

A three-year-old suit filed by Jesse C. Moore, a Fort Recovery machine designer and inventor, seeks to change it.

Moore's suit against the South west Local School District contends the district's practices violate state and federal constitutions requiring separation of church and state.

He accused the board of segregating students in four elementary schools by religion and of allowing display of religious symbols in the schools.

The school board defends employment of nuns on grounds they are certified by the state board of education and therefore are authorized to teach in public schools. It denies any forced segregation by religion, contending parents are free to send their children to any school.

Since the suit was filed, crosspetitions, briefs and counterbriefs have been entered. Last Saturday, both sides presented oral arguments to Judge Fred Cramer of Butler County.

Cramer a Jewish judge from Southern Ohio, was named by the Ohio Supreme Court to hear the case after Mercer County Judge Paul Dull disqualified himself.

The opposing sides have a month before all final replies must be filed. Some time after that, Cramer will rule.

But both sides agree there will be an appeal, regardless of how he decides.

Any final decision could affect a number of smaller school districts, mostly in northwestern Ohio which have used nuns as teachers for many years.

Ohio is not the only state in which nuns teach in public schools. Michigan, South Dakota, New Mexico and some other states also hire nuns for public school teaching.

Transfer Sought In Sales Hearing

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — A Norton attorney says he will ask the 9th District Court of Appeals to prevent Fairlawn Village Mayor Joseph Poticny from hearing cases involving violation of the village's Sunday closing ordinance.

Max Blackstone said Poticny's handling of the cases of 16 Giant Tiger employes, charged over the last five weeks, was in violation of the Ohio and U. S. constitutions which provide for separate powers of government.

Blackstone maintains Poticny has been acting as "legislator, policeman, prosecutor and judge."

Blackstone said he will ask that the cases be transferred to Akron or Barberton municipal courts. The closing ordinance prohibits selling any items on Sunday except necessities.

The highest large city in the world is LaPaz, Bolivia. At an altitude of 11,910 feet, there are more than 321,000 people in that city living more than two miles above sea level.

Convict Fails 16th Time To Gain Parole

HUTTONSVILLE, W.Va. (AP) —William Hollie Griffith, the 73-year-old convict who has spent more than a half century behind bars, has again failed to make parole.

The West Virginia Board of Probation and Parole interviewed the former badman Wednesday for the 16th time and then turned down his plea for freedom. The board did not disclose its reasons for denying the parole.

Griffith was sentenced to life in prison in 1915 after killing a law officer during a gun battle. He escaped from the West Virginia penitentiary six years later and was convicted of killing two more men during three weeks of freedom.

Griffith was given two additional life sentences and spent next six years in solitary confinement. He then went to work in the prison tailor shop and accumulated more than $26,000 operating the shop.

Griffith felt he had a good chance for parole this year in view of a request by a group of West Virginia businessmen that he be released so he could establish a garment factory in one of the state's depressed areas.

4 Killed In Head-On Collision Of 2 Cars

CAMBRIDGE, Ohio (AP)—A head-on collision of two cars just west of here claimed four lives Wednesday night.

Killed outright in the crash on U. S. 40 were Russell H. Evans, 72, of New Concord, driver of one of the cars, and Joseph B. Schrock, 66, and his wife, Elnora, 63, both of Arthur, Ill. The Schrocks' daughter-in-law, Mrs. Levi Schrock, 30, of Tuscola, Ill., died later in a Zanesville hospital.

Also hospitalized was the Schrocks' daughter, Drucilla, 40, who was driving the second car.

The Ohio Highway Patrol said Evans, who was alone, lost control of his car and it crossed a median strip.

CINCINNATI (AP)—Requiem mass for Robert K. Chandler, general advertising manager of the Cincinnati Post & Times-Star, will be celebrated Saturday in Guardian Angels Church.

Chandler, 57, died Wednesday at his home in suburban Mount Washington of a heart attack.

Chandler became general advertising manager of the old Cincinnati Post in 1964 after spending five years with the advertising staff of Scripps-Howard newspapers in Chicago.

Three-Month Project

Reinforcement Complete At Midland Pump House

A three-month project to reinforce the foundation of the pump house at the Midland Works of the Crucible Steel Co. has been completed, Guy F. McCracken, works mnager, announced today.

The pump house is responsible for pumping raw water used at the Midland Works and for approximately 3,400,000 gallons of water treated daily at the Midland Water Department for Midland area residents, industry and businesses. Approximately 75 per cent of the treated water is used by Crucible. Midland residents use approximately 300,000 gallons daily.

Built in 1905, the pump house has been modified from time to time and now pumps 85 million gallons of water daily. In 1920 three new pumps were added and in 1949 pumps were modified for the addition of the No. 1 Blast Furnace.

Over the years, the foundation had been deteriorating through erosion and rehabilitation was necessary to prevent a breakdown of the pump house operation and its vital supply of water to the plant and community, McCracken explained.

Work to reinforce the foundation was started in early May by the Dravo Corp. in conjunction with the Midland Works engineering and maintenance departments.

The project included driving new piling entirely around the pump house foundation. The piling is six feet out from the foundation and down to a depth of approximately 40 feet. By use of a driver in diving gear and a large hose, "tremi" concrete was poured under water to fill any voids in the foundation, McCracken explained.

U.S. And Soviet Scientists Propose Moon Laboratory

ATHENS, Greece (AP) — American and Soviet scientists joined today in proposing an international laboratory on the moon manned by scientists from several nations.

Proposals for the laboratory were discussed in papers submitted to a special lunar laboratory symposium at the Congress of the International Astronautical Federation.

The American proposal came from C. William Henderson of Manned Lunar Mission Studies of the U.S. National Aeronautics and Space Administration and G. L. Mitcham of the Boeing Company of Seattle.

They said in a joint paper that man might be able to start landing big enough payloads on the moon by the mid 1970s to make the laboratory feasible.

They said the laboratories should have proper living and working space for its scientists and be assured of good communications with the earth. They said there also must be "sufficient and reasonably scheduled transportation systems to and from the earth."

Henderson and Mitcham proposed that scientists first determine the missions they want the laboratory to accomplish. Then technicians can tell how big a laboratory is needed, they said.

A group of Soviet scientists proposed a weather observatory on the moon to watch both the earth and sun.

Other Russians suggested an astronomical telescope on the moon for clearer observation of the stars.

RAWALPINDI, Pakistan (AP)— In an effort to control juvenile delinquency, the West Pakistan provincial government has banned dancing of the twist in all schools and colleges.

Guild Strikes New York Times; Talks Continue

NEW YORK (AP) — The American Newspaper Guild struck the morning New York Times today, but contract talks were to resume at mid-morning. The city's afternoon newspapers went ahead with plans to publish.

Talks between the guild and the Times in a dispute centering on automation recessed at 7 a.m. and the guild immediately called a strike.

However, mediator Theodore W. Kheel announced the talks would resume at 10 a.m. and expressed optimism about the possibility of a settlement.

The Newspaper Publishers Association of New York, which represents all the city's major dailies except the afternoon Post, had said its members would cease publication if a guild strike forced the Times to shut down.

Less than an hour after the strike was called, association president John J. Gaherin said the association papers would publish "as of this moment."

Deputy Indicted In Traffic Death

CHARDON, Ohio (AP)—A geauga County deputy sheriff has been indicted on a traffic manslaughter charge in the death of another deputy.

A secret indictment against Eugene Baker, 31, of Chesterland, was returned by the county grand jury last week. The action was revealed Wednesday when the indictment papers were returned to the clerk of courts after being served on Baker.

Deputy Lummie Sanders, 50, of Chagrin Falls was killed when a sheriff's cruiser was involved in a collision with another car July 28 about four miles southeast of Chardon. Baker was driving the cruiser.

Suit Challenges Them As Teachers

Decisions Involving Nuns In Public Schools Waited

FORT RECOVERY, Ohio (AP) —A suit challenging use of Roman Catholic nuns as public school teachers will be decided soon, but that decision probably will not be final.

Before the test case ends, the Ohio Supreme Court is expected to be asked to consider for the first time the constitutional question of nuns teaching in public schools.

Though nuns have been employed in some Ohio public schools for years, the practice was challenged only three years ago.

Atty. Gen. William Saxbe ruled in 1958 that school boards "may lawfully employ persons of any religious faith or of no faith to teach in public schools" so long as they are properly certified. Saxbe also ruled wearing of religious garb—such as a nun's habit, although he didn't specify this—is legal.

That ruling has the force of law until it is changed by a court.

A three-year-old suit filed by Jesse C. Moore, a Fort Recovery machine designer and inventor, seeks to change it.

Moore's suit against the South west Local School District contends the district's practices violate state and federal constitutions requiring separation of church and state.

He accused the board of segregating students in four elementary schools by religion and of allowing display of religious symbols in the schools.

The school board defends employment of nuns on grounds they are certified by the state board of education and therefore are authorized to teach in public schools. It denies any forced segregation by religion, contending parents are free to send their children to any school.

Since the suit was filed, cross-petitions, briefs and counter-briefs have been entered. Last Saturday, both sides presented oral arguments to Judge Fred Cramer of Butler County.

Cramer a Jewish judge from Southern Ohio, was named by the Ohio Supreme Court to hear the case after Mercer County Judge Paul Dull disqualified himself.

The opposing sides have a month before all final replies must be filed. Some time after that, Cramer will rule.

But both sides agree there will be an appeal, regardless of how he decides.

Any final decision could affect a number of smaller school districts, mostly in northwestern Ohio which have used nuns as teachers for many years.

Ohio is not the only state in which nuns teach in public schools. Michigan, South Dakota, New Mexico and some other states also hire nuns for public school teaching.

Transfer Sought In Sales Hearing

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — A Norton attorney says he will ask the 9th District Court of Appeals to prevent Fairlawn Village Mayor Joseph Poticny from hearing cases involving violation of the village's Sunday closing ordinance.

Max Blackstone said Poticny's handling of the cases of 16 Giant Tiger employes, charged over the last five weeks, was in violation of the Ohio and U. S. constitutions which provide for separate powers of government.

Blackstone maintains Poticny has been acting as "legislator, policeman, prosecutor and judge."

Blackstone said he will ask that the cases be transferred to Akron or Barberton municipal courts. The closing ordinance prohibits selling any items on Sunday except necessities.

Convict Fails 16th Time To Gain Parole

HUTTONSVILLE, W.Va. (AP) —William Hollie Griffith, the 73-year-old convict who has spent more than a half century behind bars, has again failed to make parole.

The West Virginia Board of Probation and Parole interviewed the former badman Wednesday for the 16th time and then turned down his plea for freedom. The board did not disclose its reasons for denying the parole.

Griffith was sentenced to life in prison in 1915 after killing a law officer during a gun battle. He escaped from the West Virginia penitentiary six years later and was convicted of killing two more men during three weeks of freedom.

Griffith was given two additional life sentences and spent next six years in solitary confinement. He then went to work in the prison tailor shop and accumulated more than $26,000 operating the shop.

Griffith felt he had a good chance for parole this year in view of a request by a group of West Virginia businessmen that he be released so he could establish a garment factory in one of the state's depressed areas.

Three-Month Project

Reinforcement Complete At Midland Pump House

A three-month project to reinforce the foundation of the pump house at the Midland Works of the Crucible Steel Co. has been completed, Guy F. McCracken, works mnager, announced today.

The pump house is responsible for pumping raw water used at the Midland Works and for approximately 3,400,000 gallons of water treated daily at the Midland Water Department for Midland area residents, industry and businesses. Approximately 75 per cent of the treated water is used by Crucible. Midland residents use approximately 300,000 gallons daily.

Built in 1905, the pump house has been modified from time to time and now pumps 85 million gallons of water daily. In 1920 three new pumps were added and in 1949 pumps were modified for the addition of the No. 1 Blast Furnace.

Over the years, the foundation had been deteriorating through erosion and rehabilitation was necessary to prevent a breakdown of the pump house operation and its vital supply of water to the plant and community, McCracken explained.

Work to reinforce the foundation was started in early May by the Dravo Corp. in conjunction with the Midland Works engineering and maintenance departments.

The project included driving new piling entirely around the pump house foundation. The piling is six feet out from the foundation and down to a depth of approximately 40 feet. By use of a driver in diving gear and a large hose, "tremi" concrete was poured under water to fill any voids in the foundation, McCracken explained.

U.S. And Soviet Scientists Propose Moon Laboratory

ATHENS, Greece (AP) — American and Soviet scientists joined today in proposing an international laboratory on the moon manned by scientists from several nations.

Proposals for the laboratory were discussed in papers submitted to a special lunar laboratory symposium at the Congress of the International Astronautical Federation.

The American proposal came from C. William Henderson of Manned Lunar Mission Studies of the U.S. National Aeronautics and Space Administration and G. L. Mitcham of the Boeing Company of Seattle.

They said in a joint paper that man might be able to start landing big enough payloads on the moon by the mid 1970s to make the laboratory feasible.

They said the laboratories should have proper living and working space for its scientists and be assured of good communications with the earth. They said there also must be "sufficient and reasonably scheduled transportation systems to and from the earth."

Henderson and Mitcham proposed that scientists first determine the missions they want the laboratory to accomplish. Then technicians can tell how big a laboratory is needed, they said.

A group of Soviet scientists proposed a weather observatory on the moon to watch both the earth and sun.

Other Russians suggested an astronomical telescope on the moon for clearer observation of the stars.

Guild Strikes New York Times; Talks Continue

NEW YORK (AP) — The American Newspaper Guild struck the morning New York Times today, but contract talks were to resume at mid-morning. The city's afternoon newspapers went ahead with plans to publish.

Talks between the guild and the Times in a dispute centering on automation recessed at 7 a.m. and the guild immediately called a strike.

However, mediator Theodore W. Kheel announced the talks would resume at 10 a.m. and expressed optimism about the possibility of a settlement.

The Newspaper Publishers Association of New York, which represents all the city's major dailies except the afternoon Post, had said its members would cease publication if a guild strike forced the Times to shut down.

Less than an hour after the strike was called, association president John J. Gaherin said the association papers would publish "as of this moment."

Deputy Lummie Sanders, 50, of Chagrin Falls was killed when a sheriff's cruiser was involved in a collision with another car July 28 about four miles southeast of Chardon. Baker was driving the cruiser.
